Expressions of Great Loss

The death of the Rev. Frank B. Seeley, D.D., early Wednesday morning came as a distinct shock to officials of the city of Kingston, civic leaders and members of the clergy, many of whom have expressed their feeling of personal loss and loss to the community. For more than half a century Dr. Seeley had been an outstanding figure not only in church affairs but in the activities of the city.

Senator Wicks
Senator Arthur H. Wicks said that he and Mrs. Wicks have been members of the Fair Street Reformed Church since 1914 and that Dr. Seeley was not only their spiritual director but a warm personal friend.

Self-sacrificing in his efforts for civic betterment, his devotion to the people of the community was an inspiration to him, said the senator, who further remarked that he frequently sought Dr. Seeley's impartial and considered judgment on civic matters.

Dr. Seeley's service to the community down through the years is written in the hearts of the people whom he loved, the senator concluded.

Mayor Newkirk
Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk expressed his own personal feeling and that of the city officials, saying:

"The City of Kingston has lost an outstanding citizen, a man who was more interested in his fellow-men than in himself, one always willing to help others and one whose advice was often sought not only in spiritual but in civic matters. Dr. Seeley was a personal friend of my family since his coming to Kingston and I feel a great personal loss in Dr. Seeley's death."

Synod President
Dr. Davis Van Strien, president of the General Synod, Reformed Church in America, in New York said:

"The passing of our friend Dr. Seeley brings to the visible Church of Christ the end of a career that has been of inestimable strength and value to the work of the General Synod and Denomination. The mark of his spirit and influence has been set on the work of the domestic mission field of the Church and his (Continued on Page 2, Col. 6)

Cabinet Ministers
Remain Silent
on Their Views

Paris, Dec. 27 (AP)—Cabinet ministers of six western European nations met here today in an effort to pool their men and munitions into a single European army. They remained silent on whether they thought it could be done.

The foreign ministers included Italy's Alcide De Gasperi who is also premier; France's Robert Schuman; Belgium's Paul Van Zeeland; Holland's Dirk W. Stekker; Luxembourg's Joseph Bech; and Prof. Walter Hallstein of West Germany's "foreign office."

Hallstein was sitting in for Chancellor-Foreign Minister Konrad Adenauer who arrives here tomorrow. The finance ministers from the six nations did not attend this afternoon's session.

The first issue before the ministers was whether to run their proposed unified army with a single high commissioner or to put it in the hands of a board of commissioners. France and Italy were known to favor a single commissioner, while Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg want a board of commissioners.

Are Non-Committal
The ministers remained non-committal on the prospects of success. "Who can tell?" replied Stekker when asked if he thought a compromise could be worked out.

De Gasperi, who had a 45-minute private meeting with Schuman before the conference (Continued on Page 10, Col. 3)

UN Troops Battle Foe
in Deep Snow to Get Outpost

Seoul, Korea, Dec. 27 (AP)—American Sabre jets shot down two Red jets and badly damaged another in a renewal of air battles over northwest Korea today, the Fifth Air Force reported.

The MIG-15s were shot down in a 30-minute battle between 32 Sabres and 50 fight-minded MIGs. Earlier 100 MIGs had run for cover when a flight of Sabres opened up on them. The Fifth Air Force said no American planes were hurt in either encounter.

The air war broke out anew in clear skies as allied infantrymen fought in knee deep snow and subzero temperatures near Heartbreak Ridge to regain an advance position cut off by the Reds.

The Communists have been fighting intermittently since Christmas night to capture and hold the outpost.

Reds Hit Again
A company of Reds attacked again shortly after last midnight, just 24 hours before the end of a 30-day truce trial period.

The fight continued through the bitter cold early morning darkness. By 7 a. m., the Reds cut off the position.

United Nations troops counter-attacked at 11:10 a. m. the U. S. Eighth Army reported, and at noon "were fighting in knee deep snow to regain the position."

The U. S. Eighth Army reported that, for the third day within a month, no American soldiers were killed in ground action in the 24 hours ending 6 p. m. Wednesday.

Rail System Shattered
Lt. Gen. O. P. Weyland, commander of Far East air forces, said in a special communiqué that the aerial bombardment of the rail and road network in North Korea had shattered the Red rail system in North Korea.

Weyland said the air attacks prevented the Reds massing during the cease-fire talks for a new offensive.

Weyland said "Operation Strangle" will continue until the tactical situation or cease-fire agreements dictate a change."

That operation has carried heavy planes hitting the east coast rail network, Fifth Air Force hitting the west coast network, B-29 Superforts hitting key rail centers and airfields and marine planes hitting both transport targets and Communist front lines.

Weyland said, "The recent spectacular buildup of MIG activity can be taken as a direct reflection of the degree to which the enemy is being hurt by Operation Strangle."

"We have destroyed six MIGs for every fighter of ours they have shot down."

Gales Hit Britain
London, Dec. 27 (AP)—Heavy gales, with gusts of more than 90 miles an hour, buffeted the British Isles today. Coast guard stations called it the worst seagoing weather since 1945. Beach cabins were damaged at resort cities in the south of England as huge waves broke over the sea walls.

In South Wales coast guardmen described the seas as the highest they ever saw. The St. Ann's Head station reported a gust reaching 92 miles an hour.

Three Refuse to Quit Jobs

Hudson, N. Y., Dec. 27 (AP)—Three Hudson policemen mentioned in testimony at the State Crime Commission's inquiry into gambling and alleged protection payoffs have until Jan. 6 to resign or face departmental trial.

Police Commissioner Roger C. Bliss demanded the resignations yesterday.

The three—Sgt. William Egan and Patrolmen Jesse Haight and Arthur Finch—refused to quit. None was available for comment.

Bliss also said in a formal statement that other members of the force faced disciplinary action. He did not name them.

The commissioner said that "as a result of the work" of the State Crime Commission in Columbia County "it became evident that the shadow of misconduct falls upon several members of the Hudson police force."

He declared that his confidence in the "integrity and dependability" of Police Chief John J. Sullivan had been "confirmed" as a result of the probe.

Says Most Are Honest
Bliss added that he had addressed members of the department at a formal meeting last Saturday and expressed belief that most members of the department were honest.

His statement continued: "Because of the nearness of Christmas Day and with the hope that those who know themselves to be deeply involved in gambling protection payoffs from men operating numbers, horse rooms and houses of prostitution would step forward, I invited the resignation of all those men whom I addressed. . . . I reserved the right to accept or reject their resignations and gave them until Jan. 6, 1952, to do this."

'Must Somehow Leave'
The commissioner said Egan, Haight and Finch "must somehow leave" the department. "My confidence in them cannot be restored," he added. He said he had asked them to resign and "all three refused."

Bliss said that "if by Jan. 6 they do not avail themselves of the opportunity . . . to leave the force in a manner least harmful to themselves, I shall prefer charges according to police regulations, and they must stand departmental trial."

He did not specify any charges. Haight has been in the department (Continued on Page 10, Col. 3)

Mayor Asks Stay by PSC
On Bus Service Stoppage

Mayor Oscar V. Newkirk today mailed special delivery to the Public Service Commission in Albany a request for a stay on its recent order which stopped bus service on two city lines yesterday.

The letter also asks the commission to open for rehearing the city's bus problem "to determine if something cannot be worked out that will be of benefit to the people of the city who need bus service."

Following a hearing several weeks ago at which the Kingston City Transportation Corp., said it was losing money, the commission permitted the company to remove the Wilbur avenue and Fairview-Lucas runs during a 60-day trial period to determine if that would offset the deficit.

The mayor had previously asked the commission to consider a fare raise of two-cents as a possible means of solving the bus company's problem, but the commission recently announced that its regulations would not permit this move, and that a bid for a fare raise would have to come from the bus company.

The move now is to obtain a stay of the commission's order, and to attempt a new hearing to devise a plan that would be satisfactory to the bus company and to the people of the city who depend on bus service for transportation.

The two bus runs stopped last night as scheduled under terms of the commission's order.

Doubt Cast Upon
Negotiations by Most Recent Report

Vienna, Dec. 27 (AP)—The U. S. Embassy here said tonight the Hungarian Communist Government is still "considering" the American offer to pay a fine for the freedom of four jailed U. S. fliers.

Such a stand conflicted with the announcement of Hungary's legation in Washington last night that the offer of $120,000 in fines—called a ransom in the west—had been accepted for the prompt release of the four men.

Tonight's development raised doubts on the status of negotiations for release of the fliers, convicted of violating Hungary's borders after their plane lost its course on a Munich-Belgrade flight. It seemed possible the Hungarians had raised new conditions.

The ambassador here, Walter J. Donnelly, talked with George Abbott, U. S. charge d'affaires in the American legation at Budapest.

'Being Considered'
"The Hungarians merely told Abbott our proposition was being considered," Donnelly said.

But American officials in Budapest still hoped the fliers soon would be on their way to freedom. Abbott also expressed hope that the Hungarians—when their decision was made—would turn the fliers over to the U. S. legation in Budapest rather than dump them on the Austrian border without previous notice.

A group of American officials was ready to go to the border to meet the fliers. It waited for Soviet permission to cross the Russian occupied zone of Austria to the border town of Nickelsdorf, where Hungary in April released Robert A. Vogeler, American businessman imprisoned 17 months by Hungary as a "spy."

Only Officials in Austria
Donnelly and his deputy, Walter A. Dowling, are the only American officials in Austria who have the right to move about the Soviet zone without prior Soviet authorization. They planned to go to the border, if the Russians delayed authorization for the Nickelsdorf group to operate.

Three State Department limousines waited outside the embassy here for orders.

Abbott told Donnelly he had seen the Hungarian undersecretary for foreign affairs this afternoon. Abbott was told the Hungarians had made "no decisions on the American note which was delivered on Christmas Day." This was the note in which the U. S. government said it would pay the fine if the fliers were released promptly. The note was delivered at 7 p. m. Budapest time Tuesday.

"The Hungarians," said Donnelly, "told Abbott that the note was being considered by judicial and (Continued on Page 17, Col. 5)

O'Connor as Receiver Now
Operates Bowlatorium;
$10,159 Due Betz

The fact that the Ruzzo Bowlatorium is being operated by a court-appointed receiver is not expected to adversely affect the New York State Bowling tournament scheduled here in 1952.

The appointment on Oct. 31 of Charles R. O'Connor as receiver was a temporary measure resulting from a Supreme court judgment against the Bowlatorium operators for $10,159.

Whether the judgment is satisfied and the receiver discharged, or whether the receiver is still operating the alleys next summer will probably be of no concern to state bowlers. O'Connor, who has in fact been operating the Bowlatorium since Oct. 31 with business continuing as usual, said today he could see no reason for the tournament being affected by the situation.

Architect's Claim
The receiver was appointed by Supreme Court Justice Herbert D. Hammon in an order which has been filed with the county clerk.

The order was granted on petition of N. LeVan Haver, attorney for Gerard W. Betz, local architect who was awarded a judgement of $10,159 against the Kingston Mid-Town Corporation and Victor Ruzzo in Supreme Court on Feb. 8, 1951.

Pursuant to Justice Hammon's order, O'Connor was named receiver of "all property, debts, equitable interests, rights and things in action, effects and estate, real and personal" of the Kingston Mid-Town Corporation, a domestic corporation having its principal place of business at 27-43 Grand street, Kingston.

Rear Adm. Alan G. Kirk, whose request for retirement Presidential Secretary Joseph Short said Mr. Truman accepted with reluctance.

The announcement was made after the Kremlin orally informed the White House that Kennan would be acceptable. There had been some speculation that he would be turned down. It arose after attacks on him by both Pravda and Radio Moscow, the latest only yesterday.

Housing Project
Contracts Signed

Contracts for the construction of the city's low-rental housing project in the Flatbush avenue area were signed today in the office of the Kingston Housing Authority, city hall.

The general contractor is Stewart M. Muller, Inc., of Croton, whose bid was $737,500, that for electrical work was awarded to John D. Krusher, Sr., of Kingston, $43,380; plumbing, L. Michael Plumbing & Heating Corp., New York City, $94,000, and heating, John H. Philip, Inc., of Scarsdale, $79,950.

The project is to be built at a cost of $1,300,000. This is about $118,000 over the original estimate because the cost of materials and other costs have increased since inception of the project.

Work will start on the project as soon as all preliminary contract details are completed.

Russia Accepts Ambassador

Washington, Dec. 27 (AP)—Russia has agreed to accept George F. Kennan as the New U. S. ambassador to Russia and almost at the same time denounced him as a foe of the Soviets.

President Truman announced at Kansas City last night the selection of the 47-year-old career diplomat, who is credited with being a principal author of the present American policy of containment to counter the threat of Communist aggression.

Munsan, Korea, Friday, Dec. 28 (AP)—The 30-day Korean cease-fire line agreement ran out today on "a rather ominous note" in truce talks about allied prisoner of war deaths.

There was no indication here of plans to extend the agreement responsible for the 30-day twilight war. The full five-man armistice committees which signed the original agreement Nov. 27 did not even meet. An official UN spokesman said neither side asked for an extension.

But in a subcommittee, session at Panmunjom Thursday, Rear Adm. R. E. Libby said the Communists hinted: They may report many of the 50,000 unaccounted for allied prisoners of war died of exposure and disease.

'Rather Ominous Note'
Libby said it was "a rather ominous note. It might have been a forewarning that all these people died of illness."

Subcommittees working on the problems of exchanging war prisoners and supervising a truce still were deadlocked when they adjourned their last session before the scheduled expiration hour. The agreement was timed to run out at midnight (10 a. m. EST), Thursday.

Each committee scheduled another meeting for 11 a. m. Friday (9 p. m., EST Thursday) in Panmunjom.

Washington sources expressed belief Gen. Matthew B. Ridgway would approve a 15-day extension of the period in which the 145-mile line drawn across Korea Nov. 27 could become a permanent cease-fire line.

High diplomatic officials in Washington said the supreme UN commander had been authorized to approve an extension of up to 15 days if he felt there was hope of reaching an agreement.

On Nov. 27 negotiators drew a tentative cease-fire line and agreed it would become the center of a 2½ miles wide buffer zone if an armistice were signed within 30 days.

Would Be Redrawn
Otherwise the line would be redrawn just before a truce is signed to follow changes resulting from battle action.

Expiration of the cease-fire line agreement could bring an explosive end to the month-long lull on the battle front; or the twilight war could continue while negotiations go on.

The front was cold and relatively quiet Thursday as temperatures dipped below zero in some sectors. A company-size Red attack on the eastern front near Heartbreak Ridge cut off one allied unit. UN forces counterattacked in knee deep snow and biting cold.

In Thursday's fruitless talks in snow-swept Panmunjom each side accused the other of needlessly delaying the truce.

North Korean Maj. Gen. Lee Sang Cho charged that the UN wasted time by refusing to agree to a Communist proposal for an all-for-all exchange of prisoners.

Rear Adm. R. E. Libby told the Reds they wasted 12 days by refusing to set up a prisoner exchange subcommittee, then delayed for another eight days before agreeing to exchange prisoner lists.

'Fatally Deceptive'
The list finally submitted by the Reds was "fatally deceptive," Libby asserted.

In a nearby tent, the Communists verbally promised not to build up their armed strength during an armistice. But they refused to put it in writing.

Six times in 30 minutes Maj. Gen. Howard M. Turner tried to get the pledge on paper. But each time Chinese Maj. Gen. Hsieh Fang evaded a direct answer or said no reply was necessary since the Communist stand on supervision of a truce was well known.

Libby asked the Reds for more information on the 726 American (Continued on Page 10, Col. 6)

Russell could not be reached immediately for his reaction. He was reported en route to Washington by automobile from his home at Wynder, Ga.

Ralph E. Dingman
Ralph E. Dingman, 49, brother of Mrs. Vernon Miller, 13 Plymouth Avenue, died December 23 at the Newton Wellesley Hospital, Mass., following an automobile accident. Mr. Dingman, a former resident of this city, was injured in an automobile crash earlier that day when his car hit a tree at the Worcester Turnpike near Langley road, Newton Center, Mass. Police authorities who were called to the scene of the accident said that Mr. Dingman either lost control of his car or fainted while driving home. Masonic funeral services for Mr. Dingman were held Wednesday at 2 p. m. at the Newton Cemetery Chapel by the Rev. Brothers Masonic group of which he was a member. Burial took place in the Newton Highland Cemetery. Mr. Dingman, who was born in South Coventry, Conn., was a member of the U. S. Coast Guard during World War 2. Besides his sister, Mrs. Vernon Miller of this city, he is survived by his wife, Lucy Dingman; and brother, Cyrus Dingman of Troy. Mr. Dingman was a foreman at Lever Brothers Co.

Lawrence S. Steinhilber
The funeral of Lawrence S. Steinhilber, well-known New York Central Railroad employee, was held Monday at 10 a. m. from the Jenson & Deegan Funeral Home, 15 Downs street, where a high Mass of requiem was offered for the repose of his soul by the Rev. James V. Keating. Present in the church were large numbers of relatives, friends and fellow railroad men who attended the Mass out of respect to his wife, Mrs. Mary Steinhilber, who was the choir director which also sang Pie Jesu Domine and Out of the Depths. During the bereavement hundreds called to express sympathy to the family and to offer prayers. Kingston evening members of Kingston Council, 273, Knights of Columbus, and St. Joseph's Holy Name Society were led in recitation of the Rosary by the Rev. Mr. Stephen P. Connelly and the Rev. John D. Simmons. The Rev. Edward Farrelly also recited prayers for the dead. Beautiful floral pieces and numerous Mass cards gave evidence of the high esteem in which Mr. Steinhilber was held. Burial was in St. Mary's Cemetery, where Father Simmons gave the final absolution. Bearers were George Cragan, Daniel McGrane, James Loughran, Joseph McTaggart, William Winne and Chester Joy.

Warns Dewey That Pressure for Ike Will Mean Revolt
Middletown, Dec. 27 (AP)—A Republican assemblyman telegraphed Governor Dewey today that "pressure politics" to win support for General Eisenhower for the GOP presidential nomination would bring "a complete revolt" against Dewey.

Assemblyman Wilson C. Van Duzer, a political foe of Dewey's and supporter of Senator Taft for the presidential nomination, declared that "the people are disgusted with party-machine activities of both parties."

In the telegram, Van Duzer also hit at the GOP state chairman, William L. Pfeiffer.

The people resent the use of the patronage weapon to force free Americans to obey dictation from elected public servants," Van Duzer said.

He referred to Pfeiffer's recent statement that Republican state patronage in Erie county would be funneled through State Senator Walter J. Mahoney, rather than the Erie county chairman, Harry J. Forhead. Forhead has called for the nomination of Taft for president.

Van Duzer said that Pfeiffer's action "has done irreparable harm to the Republican party, to you and to your candidate, General Eisenhower, whose good name should not be associated with scheming professional politicians' activities."

"Senator Taft and General MacArthur are the nearest approach the people have to independent, forthright, just and righteous men."

"A little more Pfeiffer pressure politics will bring about a complete revolt against yourself."

News of Interest to Fraternal Organizations

There will be a regular meeting of Kingston assembly 4th degree Knights of Columbus tonight at 8:15 at the K of C home.

A regular meeting of Charles De Witt Council, 91, JOUAM, will be held Friday at 8 p. m. at Mechanics Hall, 14 Henry street. A full turnout of members is anticipated. A social hour with refreshments will follow the business session.

The regular meeting and annual election of officers of Clinton Chapter, 445, OES, will be held at Masonic Temple, Albany avenue, Friday at 7:45 p. m. Initiation of officers also will take place. The Christmas party and a covered dish supper will follow the meeting. All members are requested to bring a small gift for exchange and a covered dish. All Eastern Stars and Master Masons are invited.

Gus Hall Given Three-Year Term

New York, Dec. 27 (AP)—Gus Hall, one of the 11 convicted Communist leaders, was sentenced today to three years in prison for criminal contempt of court.

The sentence is to be served in addition to a five-year term ordered when he was convicted with the other party leaders of conspiring to teach and advocate violent overthrow of the United States Government.

The contempt conviction was based on charges that he failed to surrender last July 2 to begin serving his five-year term and that he violated court order in leaving jurisdiction of the court. Hall fled to Mexico.

Federal Judge Sylvester J. Ryan imposed the contempt sentence, three years on each of the two contempt counts, to be served concurrently when he completes his five-year term.

Steel Union Has Secret Review of Strike Situation

Pittsburgh, Dec. 27 (AP)—Strategists of the CIO United Steelworkers decided the strike or no strike question in secret today but withheld any announcement until ratification later in the day by the union's governing wage-policy committee.

USW President Philip Murray conferred with the union's 36-man executive board for more than two hours. He emerged smiling but close-mouthed.

The session began with the union virtually committed to strike New Year's Day in support of demands for an 18 1/2 cent hourly wage boost and other contract concessions. Murray and his aides said previously the 650,000 USW members in basic steel won't work without a contract. Their pact expires at midnight next Monday.

Today's sessions were called after President Truman issued a personal appeal to Murray to avert a steel strike. The President turned the steel dispute over to the Wage Stabilization Board for a recommended settlement.

The union's leaders began amid widespread predictions the USW leaders will decide against striking.

The executive board makes decisions and the 170-man wage policy committee rejects or approves those decisions.

Talk Chronology

(By The Associated Press)
Here is a chronology of the Korean peace discussions:

July 10—Armistice talks began at Red-held Kaesong.

July 26—After two interruptions, five-point agenda adopted.

July 27-Aug. 4—Reds insist that cease-fire line follow Parallel 38; Allies insist it follow current battle front, mostly in North Korea.

Aug. 5—General Ridgway broke off talks, charging Reds with "flagrant violations" of promise to keep armed troops out of Kaesong.

Aug. 10—Talks resumed when Reds promise to observe neutral zone.

Aug. 16—Still deadlocked on cease-fire line, main delegations recess, turning issue over to subcommittee.

Aug. 22—Reds broke off talks, accusing allies of bombing Kaesong.

Oct. 25—Talks resumed at Panmunjom after two months of long-range questions over charges of neutrality zone violations.

Nov. 27—Provisional cease-fire line agreed upon, to follow current battlefront, but to become effective only if complete armistice agreed upon within 30 days.

Nov. 28-Dec. 10—Subcommittee in daily debate over how to supervise an armistice.

Dec. 10-18—At allied urging, another subcommittee begins work on prisoner-exchange issue.

Dec. 18-24—Subcommittees continue fruitless debates on both issues.

Dec. 18-24—Opposing sides exchange lists of prisoners they hold; Red list contains 11,559 names, including 3,198 Americans; allied report 132,472.

Dec. 19—Each side charges list too short and demands accounting for additional missing.

Dec. 19-24—Arguments continue over prisoner lists and truce supervision.

Dec. 26—Reds admit capturing 1,058 additional Americans but say 571 died, 155 escaped or were released and they do not know what became of other 352.

Dec. 27—Deadline on provisional cease-fire line expires at midnight (10 a. m. Dec. 27, EST), unless extended. A new cease-fire line reflecting any battle front changes may be redrawn after all other armistice issues are settled.

Financial and Commercial

New York, Dec. 27 (AP)—Broad buying support today in the stock market held prices moderately higher.

Steels, oils, and rails were among the most actively sought of the major divisions, and there was no single area definitely on the downside.

At the same time there were several individual issues either in demand or selling higher than average.

The list as a whole posted fractional gains. Kennecott and du Pont were up around a point in moderate activity.

Marathon Corp. was up a major fraction and lightly traded after directors proposed a 100 per cent stock dividend plus the sale of additional shares to underwriters. At the same time Marathon reported for the fiscal year ended Oct. 31 net profits equal to $6.59 a share as against $4.84 for the comparable period a year ago.

Truman Is Busy

Kansas City, Dec. 27 (AP)—President Truman, under pressure of the approaching steel strike deadline and the need to get budget figures ready for Congress, was back at his holiday White House desk early today. Again passing up the early morning walk he likes to take on his White House grounds, the President left his independence home at 8:18 a. m. (CST), and hurried by car to the executive offices maintained in the Hotel Muehlebach in downtown Kansas City.

Wicks and Others

leadership as national president of the Board of Domestic Missions will survive his life among us."

The Rev. J. B. Stokette, stated clerk of the Classis of Ulster, spoke of the great interest which Dr. Seeley had always taken in the work of the Classis of Ulster.

"One of the outstanding works in which he and the Rev. George Gulick participated, was the union of the Classis of Kingston and Ulster in June 1922. His services to the Classis was outstanding and during his long period of service in Kingston he served on many important committees of Classis and took an active part in the work. His death will be keenly felt."

C. E. Burnett
C. E. Burnett, senior elder of the Fair Street Reformed Church, speaking on behalf of the consistory of the church said:

"For 50 years of his life, the Fair Street Church was under the leadership of a man who by his indomitable courage and high faith guided its life and growth to a place where it has, under God, been able to render its influence for Christ's kingdom in our town. It is with understandable sadness of loss that we must mark Dr. Seeley's entrance to the Church Triumphant. Countless homes where there has been despair and doubt have known in him renewed hope and vision. Hundreds of minds that have known fear and dread have known from his mind a birth of courage and confidence. It has furthered our pride as a church that far beyond the confines of this parish, Dr. Seeley has given of his spiritual and moral insight in the leadership of practically every important community agency as well as the denominational concerns of the national Church. The joy of the people of our church this day lies in the confidence we know in the eternal future of a life so lived and in the trust that his influence will live in the work of the Fair Street Church which he served."

Dr. William C. Cain
The Rev. Dr. William C. Cain, president of the Kingston Ministerial Association, paid a high tribute to Dr. Seeley, saying:

"It is with a deep and poignant sense of loss that the membership of the Kingston Ministerial Association learned of the passing of Dr. Seeley. His interest in the aims and enterprises of the association was deep and sincere. He shared with us his wisdom of the years and his knowledge of men and women in their needs. We looked to him for guidance and understanding and were not disappointed.

"Dr. Seeley walked the common ways of his brethren and rejoiced in the Christian fellowship of sharing the mysteries of God. Pilgrims of Absolute knew him for a companion of stalwart heart and high-challenging imagination, ready for the mountain climb of Eternity. Dr. Seeley as a Christian minister and leader in the church lived the days of his fruitful ministry in the abiding confidence of an eternal inheritance which he was already enjoying and which he wanted other men to enjoy with him. He had worship in his life; he had home in his life. So he had God and God's love in his life. These it was his great privilege to share with his associates in the ministry."

In the midst of his professional concerns there was a realization of his responsibilities as a citizen. With a sense of high personal integrity and with a feeling of affectionate concern for all his fellows, Dr. Seeley entered into the life of Kingston and Ulster county as a churchman strong and mighty for the sake of civic righteousness and cultural propriety. He made his life count vigorously for that which was good; the impress of that good shall not be lost on our community with his passing.

"His conversation was in Heaven but its outcome was among men; his sight was beyond the horizon but what he saw he brought into realization in our place." Besides his widow, Virginia Sinclair Boice Seeley, a daughter, Mrs. Virginia DeGraft of Kingston and a granddaughter, Mrs. George Hendricks of Winchester, Mass., one sister, Mrs. John Wesley Estabrook of Brandon, Vermont, and two brothers, George W. Seeley of Taunton, Mass., and Dr. Ralph H. Seeley of Rutland, Vermont, survive.

Cronin Case Seen Going to Jury in Immediate Future

New York, Dec. 27 (AP)—Tallulah Bankhead's former secretary wound up her court defense today against charges that she stole $4,000—money that she said went to buy "marijuana, booze, cocaine and sex" for the actress.

Assistant District Attorney Jerome Kidder, the prosecutor, said he would call two more witnesses but that Miss Bankhead would not be asked to testify again.

Kidder said the witnesses would be an accountant from the district attorney's office and a representative of the Hotel Elisee, where Miss Bankhead lives when in Manhattan.

He said they will give documentary evidence aimed at refuting the claims of the defendant, Mrs. Evelyn Cronin, 59, that she had to raise Miss Bankhead's checks to pay the actress' expenses.

The prosecutor indicated the case may go to the jury today. One of the final defense witnesses was Miss Josephine Cronin, the defendant's adopted daughter.

She told the court she had seen Miss Bankhead strike Mrs. Cronin on many occasions.

She said she had remonstrated with Miss Bankhead who told her, "mind your own business."

Miss Cronin in testimony yesterday told how she shared her foster mother's duties as Miss Bankhead's employee.

First, the young witness told of one shopping trip she made with the defendant for Miss Bankhead. Then, under questioning by Defense Attorney Fred G. Moritt, Miss Cronin said in April 1950 Miss Bankhead "asked me to get cocaine."

Kidder vigorously objected and Judge Harold Stevens ordered cocaine remark stricken from the record.

Mystery Covers Bombing Phase

Mims, Fla., Dec. 27 (AP)—Mystery still surrounded one phase today of the bombing that killed a prominent Negro leader in his isolated home, but another phase seemed clear.

Federal and state authorities sought to determine the type of explosive that was used in the blast and to ferret out the person or persons who set it under the bedroom of the small frame dwelling.

But this appeared certain: The reason that Harry T. Moore was slain was because of his aggressive leadership in state Negro affairs. Moore's wife, Harriet, was critically hurt in the blast.

Leaders of the National Association for Advancement of Colored People in New York immediately connected the Christmas night bombing with the widely-known Lake county rape case and a series of attacks directed at Jews, Catholics, and Negroes in Florida since last June.

Spoke at Meetings
Mary McLeod Bethune, president-emerita of Bethune-Cookman College for Negroes at Daytona Beach, said Moore had spoken at several Florida meetings in connection with the Lake county case, and added:

"I think possibly the aggressiveness of Mr. Moore in pointing out to Negroes the opportunities of true citizenship may have been a reason."

teacher who spearheaded a move eight years ago to get pay for Negro teachers equal to that of white teachers, was state secretary of the NAACP.

His job required extensive traveling and he and his family had met here for a holiday reunion. His wife teaches at Lake Park near West Palm Beach; his daughter Annie at Ocala; and his mother Rosa at Jacksonville.

Two Uninjured
Moore's daughter and mother, sleeping in adjoining bedrooms in the house, were uninjured.

At a Sanford Hospital Moore's wife was reported to have suffered a mild brain concussion, internal injuries of the chest and abdomen, a pelvic injury and bruises on her forehead. Her physician said she had a 50-50 chance to recover.

Moore lived about a mile from Mims, a small community 40 miles south of Daytona Beach.

Taxpayer Group Assails Summary Given by Secretary

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 27 (AP)—A private taxpayers' group said today Governor Dewey apparently was creating a "smoke screen" intended to ward off citizens' demands for tax reductions in 1952.

The citizens public expenditure survey, which recently called for a 105-million-dollar tax reduction in the state's 1952-53 budget, attacked a summary of department budget requests recently issued by Dewey's secretary, James C. Hagerty.

Hagerty said departments and agencies had asked for appropriations amounting to 50 million dollars more than was given them in the current budget. Appropriations for the present year total $999,700,000.

Commenting on Hagerty's summary, the survey president, Garth A. Shoemaker of Elmira, said:

"Reports of budget requests from state departments and agencies for increased appropriations next year have all the appearance of a smoke screen intended to ward off citizens' demands for tax reductions in 1952."

"There is nothing unusual about requests for higher appropriations by government bureaus and agencies."

"It's the same old story of an alleged need for adding more people to the state's payrolls, for expanding present state services and special programs."

The survey has urged a cut of about 20 per cent in the personal income tax and the corporate franchise tax to make up the 105-million-dollar reduction. A group of Republican state senators reportedly is seeking a five or 10 per cent reduction, probably in the state's income tax.

In announcing his summary of departmental requests, however, Hagerty indicated Dewey would not recommend a tax cut. This would mean that present collection rates would be continued, including the current 10 per cent "forgiveness" on the full legal rate of the income tax.

39 Veterans Reach Newark Airport

Newark, N. J., Dec. 27 (AP)—Thirty-nine Korean war veterans, whose plans to spend Christmas with their families were dampened by bad weather and plane trouble, arrived at Newark airport today.

A United Airlines plane which picked up the downcast GI's at Des Moines landed here at 5:10 a. m.

The soldiers began their transcontinental flight almost a week ago. A plane chartered by the army from Capital Airways left Seattle Dec. 21 with the 29 veterans whose homes are in New Jersey, New York and Pennsylvania.

Motor trouble held up the flight for two days at Pendleton, Ore. Then the plane reached Des Moines, where it was grounded because of bad weather. The GI's anxious to join their loved ones, were forced to spend a lonesome

Christmas Eve waiting for the weather to clear. Their scheduled takeoff yesterday was cancelled after an engine developed trouble on the runway. Late last night, United Airlines said it was ordered to pick up the stranded soldiers and fly them to their eastern homes. The plane took off from Des Moines shortly before 2 a. m. (EST) for Newark airport.

U. S. TRAFFIC PROBLEM

On September 13, 1899, one H. H. Bliss stepped off a streetcar in New York and was killed by an automobile. On the morning of December 22, 1951, David Dawson of Danbury, Tex., died in a hospital of injuries suffered in a traffic accident.

Bliss was the first traffic fatality in American history, and Dawson, as nearly as can be determined, was the one millionth.

It took 52 years and little more than three months to record the first million fatalities of the Motor Age. But the National Safety Council estimates that at present rates the second million would be reached in just 30 years.

Everyone will agree that one million represents a heavy toll of human life. Especially when it is realized that these people were struck down in the course of peaceful pursuits—not in war.

It is a figure calculated to shock. But will it shock? Will it make a real dent on the minds of the American motorists who have already begun to pile up the second million?

A study of accident trends doesn't offer encouragement. Obviously the number of mishaps is not dropping off. Numerical probabilities are all the other way. The nation's population is still soaring. And today there are almost 50 million vehicles on the road, roughly double the total at the low point in World War II.

To accommodate the increasing millions of people and added millions of cars, we have a steadily less effective street and highway system throughout the country. This statement holds in spite of vast expenditures for elaborate turnpikes and urban expressways.

The uncomfortable fact, long understood by highway planners, is that improvement and expansion of the road network simply is not keeping pace with the loads placed upon it. Some of the fanciest thoroughfares are outmoded almost before they are open to traffic.

In many areas, state and local highway departments can't even keep the old roads in minimum good repair. Consequently, the system is breaking down progressively. Highways are bearing burdens out of all proportion to their capacity. Engineered according to now-antiquated methods of design, all too many are death traps under today's conditions.

This is getting to be a pretty old story. But, unfortunately, so is the fact that nothing drastic is being done about it.

Is anybody in this country taking a really long view of our traffic problems? Is anybody offering the bold, imaginative solutions which alone might get us out of this mess at some point within the next couple of decades?

Most of today's answers are apparently arrived at with blinkers on. Admittedly the sweeping solutions called for will cost fantastic sums. But if short-range solutions are accepted instead, it may be discovered in five or 10 years that the smaller sums expended—small only by comparison—have been largely wasted. The likelihood is they will bring but temporary relief.

The traffic problem demands the best thinking of some of our top minds. Surely these are not all engaged on defense matters. Our statesmen had better put a few of them on it—and soon—or there won't be anything to defend but a coast-to-coast traffic snarl.

BUNDLES FOR CAUDLE?

T. Lamar Caudle, who might well have been named by the late W. C. Fields, has run quite a gamut of interesting activities, both in and out of his former office as assistant attorney general.

About the only thing that has not happened to this unfortunate gentleman is to have someone show up at the congressional hearing with a packet of his letters bound in pink ribbon. If this should ever occur, we are sure of only one thing. They would be addressed to "Cuddles" Caudle.

THEY PUSH US AROUND

The time has come for the United States to insist upon decency in the relations among countries. The time has come for our government to demand that the inviolability of American life be recognized. Only conquered countries pay ransom. Self-respecting nations fight for their citizens. Russia is testing how afraid we really are.

Even during World War II, when we were aiding the Russians, when we gave them $11,000,000,000 of the earnings of our people, American fliers who found themselves forced down on Russian soil were treated as enemies. What kind of an ally was that, and do we know the whole truth about that? Do we know what happened to other Americans who found themselves in Russian territory during the war years?

The Vogel case shocked the sensibilities of this country. Was it really such an extraordinary incident that an American, finding himself in Soviet territory on proper business, should be imprisoned and tortured?

Robert A. Vogel was a brave man and it is reported that he has said that the ransom paid for him was too high. That is not humility or modesty; it is a patriotic insistence that the United States pays no ransom. This country ought not to submit to blackmail. Ransom is submission. The Russians are showing the world that we are cowardly.

The reporter, William N. Oatis, remains in a vile Czech jail, a suffering and tortured American, accused of espionage. Oatis was no spy. He sought the news, as American reporters seek the news, unsolicited, unsummoned, truthful. For that he was called a spy, brutally tortured, and remains in prison, rotting his young life away.

Now four American fliers who lost their way are imprisoned in Hungary and have been tried as spies. It is the same pattern. Whoever travels behind the Iron Curtain, uninvited, is to be killed, lest what he has witnessed be made known to the world. Not human life but the Iron Curtain is to be inviolate.

One can point to our revolution even to the accusation of espionage. It took 11 years to convict Alger Hiss. He was given two public jury trials, a grand jury and a House Committee on Un-American Activities investigation. The atom bomb spies were given every opportunity to defend themselves and for appeal. Judith Coplon is still free. The criminal conspiracy of the Communist leaders, investigated by the House Committee on Un-American Activities since 1937, was finally exposed and the guilty punished in one of the longest trials in history. And so it goes in a free land, where we seek to avoid punishing a man for the reprehensible crime of espionage. When he is found guilty here, there can be no question of a fair, open trial in accordance with the protectives of our Constitution.

It is possible to say that the FBI should pick up every Russian spy in this country. There are plenty of them here, particularly so-called diplomats assigned to the United Nations. Many of them belong to the satellite nations and are delegated to the United Nations only to do the work of spies among us. Their presence is known and could easily be investigated by the McCarran Committee without the slightest regard to the State Department, diplomatic immunity or diplomatic courtesy. There is no reason why the United States should tolerate spies in this country even if they bear diplomatic passports.

Retaliation of that sort would quickly teach the Russians not to treat lightly the liberty and life of an American citizen. There are so many of these agents in this land and they are roaming among us freely.

Every member of the American Communist Party is a Russian agent. Every member of the American Communist Party must regard Russia as the mother country. It is a fundamental of the Communist conspiracy, which has been organized along these lines and maintains an effective discipline against those who forget that obligation. It is possible that the Russians assume that America has similar agents in European and Asiatic countries. Undoubtedly, we have intelligence officers and there is ample international law to cover them.

The various movements to liberate satellite countries from Russian tyranny deserve encouragement among all Americans who love freedom. Beyond that, we ought not to go. The Russians should be required to respect the American passport and American good faith and if they refuse to act properly, we ought to retaliate with vigor and forthrightness. This is no era for pussyfooting.

That Body of Yours

By JAMES W. BARTON, M.D.

PENICILLIN PREVENTS RHEUMATIC FEVER

When it became known that rheumatic fever was the forerunner of heart disease in children and that infected tonsils were the forerunner of rheumatic fever, it was only natural for physicians and parents to want infected tonsils removed before rheumatic fever and heart disease occurred. That tonsils that were not infected, simply enlarged, were and are being removed is quite true but neither parents nor physicians wish to take a chance as they know that rheumatic fever is childhood's greatest enemy.

Is the removal of infected tonsils really a safeguard against rheumatic fever? Is it wise to leave infected tonsils in the throat until the child has had all the diseases of childhood—scarlet fever, measles and others?

That infected tonsils should be removed has now been well established and the latest information definitely proves this fact.

In The American Journal of Medicine, New York, Drs. L. W. Wannamaker, C. H. Rummelknap, Jr., P. W. Denny and others, report their results from injecting procaine penicillin G in oil containing aluminum monostearate into the muscles according to one of three dosage schedules in 1,178 patients with exudative (poultice pus) tonsillitis or pharyngitis, in an attempt to prevent the development of acute rheumatic fever in these patients, while 1,162 were untreated. Of the 1,178 patients, 634 were given a total dose of 1,200,000 units of penicillin in three injections over a period of 96 hours; 254 were given 600,000 units in two injections over 72 hours, and 290 were given a single injection of 600,000 units.

In 10 patients who had received penicillin and in 42 patients who had received no treatment, rheumatic fever or possible rheumatic fever developed following the observed illness.

When the interval between giving of penicillin and appearance of disease was short, the treatment was most effective, there being only two cases of rheumatic fever among those receiving treatment and 28 where no treatment was given. These figures show that penicillin treatment of acute streptococcal (strep) throat infections almost completely prevents the occurrence of rheumatic fever.

The most pronounced prevention was that obtained by the dosage schedule of three injections of penicillin over a 96-hour period totalling 1,200,000 units of the antibiotic.

The Usual Pre-Campaign Act

The Washington Merry-Go-Round

By DREW PEARSON

(Ed. Note—This is another in Drew Pearson's series of columns on the cause of corruption in government and its cure.)

Washington—In every administration, whether Democrat or Republican, the cue for clean government is set right at the top. Basically the fault lies with the President of the United States.

This was true of Warren G. Harding, who, though personally honest, spent so much time playing poker at the little green house on K street that the boys below and around him felt that they could indulge their own personal pleasures, too. Result was one of the worst eras of government graft.

This is also true, in a different way, of Harry Truman, who is not only honest personally, but had a well-publicized record in the Senate for exposing inefficiency and corruption.

Though President Truman also goes in for occasional poker parties with stakes as high as that Speaker Sam Rayburn goes to bed, and though the President also has occasional conferences with I. W. Harper, the cue for influence-peddling is set not by him personally but those around him. It is done in two ways:

By the fact that the White House staff accepts personal favors as deep freezes and free airplane junkets in return for highly valuable concessions made at the taxpayers' expense.

By the fact that the men immediately around Truman don't get to the roots of corruption. They are not alert and militant as were honest Harold Ickes and the men around Roosevelt.

This lack of militancy is one reason why the President seems to have fumbled the ball regarding the appointment of Judge Tom Murphy to head a corruption clean-up.

The Palace Guard

Truman began with every intention of a genuine clean-up. He seemed completely sincere about letting the chips fall where they may. But gradually, almost imperceptibly, the palace guard has shunted him around to the idea that the press is exaggerating the corruption issue in order to persecute one Harry Truman.

To one recent visitor, the President said reassuringly: "Corruption isn't as bad as it's painted and we're going to clean it up. The big trouble is the newspapers are all trying to out-do Drew Pearson."

This idea was the result of a steady sales campaign by the palace guard.

White House staff conferences never have been too inspiring, but today they are worse. Wilson Wyatt, the ex-mayor of Louisville, when in charge of veterans' housing, used to find his housing ideas sabotaged by Harry Vaughan, who sat in a corner of the room during staff meetings, held his nose and pulled an imaginary chain, when he didn't like one of Wyatt's policies. The President, watching Vaughan out of the corner of his eye, took the cue. He turned down so many of Wyatt's ideas that he resigned.

The incident illustrates the power of the White House staff on a President, especially one who is weak or changeable.

Today not many new ideas come up at staff meetings. Part of the time is monopolized by General Vaughan, who takes pride in having a couple of new jokes every day for the amusement of his chief; while part of the time is spent telling Mr. Truman about the unfairness of the press.

Good Intentions
Once or twice, the President has started his staff conference on what amounted to a sermon on clean government, repeated his famous quotation to Democratic Chairman Frank McKinney, "My friends have let me down," told how he never tolerated graft when he was a county judge for Tom Pendergast, and wound up with a firm statement that he intended to throw out the crooks.

Then when the conversation got round to specific ways of cleaning up influence, someone adroitly shifted it to Mr. Truman's pet target—the press. This never fails to get his dander up, and the President's original good intentions are forgotten.

Real fact is that Matt Connelly, most astute member of the White House staff, and friend of many of the big city Democratic bosses, has not seemed too enthusiastic about a slam-bang clean-up. It was Connelly who first suggested Judge Murphy to head the corruption investigation, but after Murphy insisted on a forthright staff of his own choosing with plenty of power behind it, the original ardor for a real housecleaning seemed to cool around the White House.

One interesting thing about the charming Matt Connelly is that he has done some of the same kind of wire-pulling that others are being condemned for by congressional committees. Matt's special interest in more ways than one is certain big airlines, and it was he, perhaps more than anyone else, who eulched the President into reversing the Civil Aeronautics Board and its opposition to the Pan American and American Overseas Airlines amalgamation.

Beautiful Lobbyist
After Connelly helped these two airlines to combine, his vivacious friend and vice president of American Airlines, Carlene Roberts, had her salary increased from $12,000 to $25,000.

The full impact of these developments is not realized by the President. And if he does read about them in the newspapers, the palace guard usually manages to discount them as mere persecution by the press.

The President, for instance, seems to have no realization that when his personal physician, Brig. Gen. Wallace Graham, is publicly exposed for gambling on the commodity market and gets promoted rather than reprimanded, the cue is taken by lesser men all down the line in government.

What those in the White House get away with, argue those down the line, others can get away with.

The acceptance of free deep-freezes by General Vaughan and Mrs. Truman and members of the cabinet may not have seemed important to the President. But these examples set at the very top, have had immediate repercussions down below. So does the effect of a municipal judgeship to the cue is taken by lesser men all down the line in government.

So also does the effect of the free perfume which John Maragon brought in for the wives of high officials. Maragon even attempted to bribe the customs, and because he was a friend of the White House, got away with it where other men would have been prosecuted.

With these White House cues tacked on the public horizon for all the world to see, it is not hard to understand why subordinates follow suit. That is one important way corruption gets started in government.

Diplomat Gives His Reflections on Merry Christmas in 'Merry' Moscow

By DAVID LAWRENCE

Washington, Dec. 27—If you were living in Moscow on Christmas Day and had been observing for some time the attitude of the Soviet government and the Russian people, what would your thoughts be and what advice would you pass on to your American friends?

A diplomat in Moscow sent to a personal friend in the United States a Christmas card with a note on it that reflects his observations on the passing scene. For reasons of politeness, the nationality of the diplomat cannot be divulged. His note reads as follows:

"Merry Christmas from merry Moscow."

"Last night I saw a performance of Tolstoy's 'Resurrection' at the Moscow Art Theatre, and walking home past the Kremlin walls and the Church of Basil, the Blest, through the snow and crowds of silent, surly people, I decided to re-read the novel. There on the title-page was Tolstoy's inscription from Matthew: 'Then came Peter to Him, and said, Lord, how oft shall my brother sin against me, and I forgive him? Till seven times? Jesus saith unto him, I say not unto thee, until seven times; but, until seventy times seven.'"

"And so, in spite of the incredible atmosphere of one-man-made hatred in which I live here (or maybe because of it), that perhaps is what I should say this Christmas."

"Of one thing, indeed, I am sure: The only way we can win in the battle against the Russians right now and in the end, is to make your country and ourselves (and particularly me) better, purer, truer."

This brief message contains a world of meaning. For basically the problem today is not to bring on more bloodshed if it can be avoided, because that would avail little in the long run, but to find a way to prove to 200,000,000 people in Russia that they can be masters of their own destiny. For the atom bomb by itself is harmless. It's the hand that can throw the atom bomb which has to be guided, so as to allow restraint and the strictures of a real conscience to govern the behavior of that hand.

Unless the minds of the Russian people can be won, there cannot be peace. But to win those minds, the United States and its allies cannot expect mere broadcasts of boasts and pride, tales of American armed superiority and theoretical plans to bomb Russian cities to be the theme of the Voice of America. The Russian mind can be won only if it perceives that the American mind is truly unselfish and actually devoid of the impurities which beset a prosperous and powerful nation.

The true Voice of America is a voice of truth and decency. It is not typified by tax scandals or the sinfulness of a political system which is eating away at the virtues of the nation like a cancer and causing its tissues of prestige to deteriorate before the world.

The dollars that America sends abroad are not in themselves a voice of truth or purity. They are acts of generosity but they are also looked upon in other countries as designed to influence, if not bribe, other nations into adopting policies they should desire of their own initiative to adopt without regard to materialistic considerations.

There are lots of things that not only the United States but Britain and France and Germany and Spain and Italy will have to do as nations to develop in the world the kind of moral spirit that can attract allies from behind the Iron Curtain. But in that great crusade for a better world, there is not much that can be achieved unless a purge of sinfulness penetrates all the nations that seek but perhaps do not yet deserve freedom from worry and tension.

The message from the diplomat in Moscow in reality counsels patience. It is not a counsel of non-resistance or pacifism. It is a counsel that points to moral as well as physical vigor. Once the combination is achieved, the people of Russia will some day learn to distinguish between sincerity and insincerity, trust and distrust, hypocrisy and genuineness. For only by the power of example can great victories be won in the realm of human behavior. (Reproduction Rights Reserved)

AS PEGLER SEES IT

By WESTBROOK PEGLER

London—Even prior to the sudden seizure of the medical profession by the National Health Service of the Socialist government of Britain in July 1948, British customs differed somewhat from the American. The doctor's patient was, in a sense, his property. A doctor could sell his "practice" to retire or to buy or build another somewhere else. The relationship between doctor and patient was less intimate in British practice and the British patient was less demanding than the American. The derided "bed-side manner" of American practice was not included in the service of British medical men whose fees in many cases were reckoned in shillings. Patients were less likely to go to the doctor or telephone him to hurry right over unless they had reason to believe that they were really sick and not suffering from massive hangover, hangnail or the gripes.

But if President Truman's plan to establish a national medical service within the so-called social security system, which is broke and a fraud, were put into effect tomorrow, each doctor now practicing would be offered a "practice" under a government subsidy of $6 much per patient. The British system imitates the Chinese in that the doctor gets a per capita payment per patient even though he never sees the patient. The patient is assigned to him and registered in his name and the British equivalent of social security pays him three-pence ha-penny a week, or seven cents at normal exchange, for each patient on his list.

He is not allowed to have more than 4,000 patients. This figure is based on the assumption that of course he will never have to care for more than a few at a time. The average number on a list is 2,500. When a client of the National Health Service registers with the local outpost of the bureaucracy, he is given the name of four or five neighborhood doctors. He selects one. If he selects the best one, however, he is likely to find out that this one has all the patients he can take care of and will not accept any more. Thus, as Lord Horder, the King's physician, who is the leader of the Fellowship for Freedom in Medicine, has pointed out, the patient goes down the list until he finds a doctor who can accept him. It does not necessarily follow that he will land in the hands of the least competent doctor, but neither can he pick the best doctor in the neighborhood. The National Health Service in an official pamphlet, published at public expense, said "members of the public can choose the family doctor whom they want," which is a characteristic lie of the typical Socialist bureaucracy. Obviously they can't and they never could.

But if Truman were to impose this system on the United States, every malingering faker and hypo could haunt the doctor's office all the time and come away with prescriptions for all kinds of patent medicines, except those which are not admitted to the new pharmacopia, and millions of them would land in hospitals for free board and room for varying stretches as Harold L. Ickes and many other parasites of the Roosevelt-Truman bureaucracy have been doing all these years in the Naval Hospital in Bethesda, Md. Although Ickes, a rich but stingy man, was absolutely ineligible for a bed or medical service at the Naval Hospital under the law, he twice put himself to bed there for long periods, paying only $3.50 a day which, of course, did not cover even his meals to eat in the mess hall.

That is, they were good enough for the people who pay taxes but not good enough for a parasitic political aristocracy whose attitude toward the people is remarkably similar to that of the Soviet Politburo.

The British Medical Association is a very sedate and conservative professional society corresponding to our American Medical Association. Lord Horder got sore, however, so in November, 1948, about four months after the health service imposed socialized medicine on the British doctors and the people, on his initiative, a group of medical men organized the Fellowship for Freedom. Lord Horder is chairman of the Fellowship.

At the inaugural meeting in London he said the British Medical Association's resistance to the bureaucracy had "collapsed" and thrown away its chance to oppose "the dragging of the profession by the politicians." He called this "the triumph of the machine." (Continued on Page 7, Col. 1)

Questions — Answers

Q—What is the difference between adjourning and proroguing Parliament?

A—When the British Parliament is prorogued the session is at an end and the members do not reconvene until a new session is officially opened with the King's speech. When Parliament is adjourned it can be recalled.

Q—Why is Elizabeth Zane famous in American history?

A—In 1872, the Indians surrounded Fort Henry near Wheeling, W. Va. Volunteers were called to fetch powder stored in a cabin outside the palisade. Answering the call, Elizabeth Zane ran the gauntlet of Indian bullets, filled a small keg with powder and returned to the fort.

Pfc. Duane Winnie, youngest son of Mrs. Seymour Winnie of Ashokan, recently was home on furlough. Duane who had been receiving army training at Fort Jackson, S. C., since February, was scheduled to fly from New York to Seattle, Wash., and thence overseas for service in Korea.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Carlson of New Jersey spent the weekend and holiday with their son, Harold, local KHS student, and Mrs. Carlson's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gebelein.

An estimated 35 bucks were taken out of the Oliveria valley during the deer season and the kill is reported to have been correspondingly heavy throughout the Catskills. It was in the Oliveria wilds that a Kingston hunter bagged a 13-pointer. A number of women bagged their deer this season, one of them being Mrs. Charles Oliver of Arkville, whose five-point buck was unique in that it had hair on its antlers. Gladys Vollmer of Kingston, hunting in the Haines Falls area where she formerly resided, got an eight-pointer less than an hour after she started to hunt.

A red jeepster has been added to the equipment of the uniformed Ashokan Reservoir police force. About 20 patrolmen, many of whom are county residents, operate in this area.

Birthdays falling on Friday, Dec. 28, include that of Roy Ransom, High Falls resident and Freeman field representative. Roy, a native of Glen Castle Broome county, removed to High Falls in 1923. He is married to Ida M. Bishop who was brought up in the Tongore section of Olive and they have two married daughters.

Mrs. George Dillbell has returned to her home in Shavertown after having been a medical patient at the new Delaware Valley Hospital in Walton.

This is no time of the year to water-trap muskrats — legally, that is. The season doesn't open until February 1 and traps may not be set in the water or where covered by water.

Beatrice Tuceling, Old Hurley resident who made her home here for many years, planned to go to the metropolitan area the latter part of the week to see her new grandson, born recently to Mr. and Mrs. Robert Lawson of Rye.

The baby, second child of the former Shokan War 2 veteran and grandson of Mrs. John Lawson of Hurley, has been named Jonathan.

William Jackson, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Jackson of Ashokan, is home on a week's army furlough. Bill has been transferred from Camp Devens, Mass., to Camp Gordon, Ga., where he enters the Signal Corps school. The local athlete and KHS graduate was a telephone company splicer before joining the army last fall.

Echo of Waterworks Days: Tuesday, Dec. 27, 1910—Elva H. Bogart, formerly of Olive installed chaplain of Kingston Lodge No. 10, of Masons, at its 122nd annual communication. . . . Maryann Vandemark, native of Shokan, has finished harvesting ice for the Winnisook Club at Branch. . . . Judge A. T. Clearwater leading counsellor for reservoir claimants, says he has been practicing law 39 years and has never had any written contract with any of his Ashokan area clients. . . . Chaplain Roswell R. Hoos of Norfolk, Va., in Freeman letter on obituary of Dr. J. G. Van Slyke who died December 15, says the former First Dutch Church dominie was descended from one of two brothers, William Peterse and Cornelius Anthonisz, early Dutch settlers, and the surname Van Slyke was added later, according to a common custom in those days.

The Mature Parent

Don't Fear a Retreat From a Poor Decision
By MURIEL LAWRENCE

There's a tear in the coat of the new school suit. We stare at it, throw down our dish towel and cry, "Didn't I tell you to change that suit before you went out to play? Didn't I tell you that?" We don't expect an answer and give our son no chance to find one. Instead we continue with mounting wrath, "Go upstairs to your room. When you're ready to say 'I'm sorry,' you can come down. Such carelessness! No thought ever for what it costs to keep you looking decent at school! No thought . . ."

We pile dishes in the closet furiously—but as the afternoon wanes and no sound comes from upstairs, we begin to feel uneasy. By the time we're ready to set the table, our rage has subsided. So we go to the foot of the stairs and call, "You better tell me you're sorry for disobeying! Dinner's nearly ready . . ."

The door does not open. We start the gravy a little nervously. A tray? There's something wrong about the tray. What then? He has to eat. But you can't force a child to say "I'm sorry" if he doesn't want to.

This is the dilemma in which we find ourselves when we go in for emotional, thoughtless ultimatums. When we do indulge our appetite for them, they are bound to involve us in exposed positions from which there is no escape except through humility.

In this case, we have left ourselves no out that I can see but to go upstairs to the closed door, open it and say, "Jimmy, I had no right to demand you to tell me you are sorry for disobeying. Your feelings about what you did are your private affair. But I do think it is fair to require you to pay part of the re-weaving bill for your coat. How much do you think you can afford to pay every week from your allowance?"

When we and Jim have decided on an amount that seems just to us both, he should be asked to come down to his dinner.

THE POWER THAT LIES IN HUMILITY

Nearly always our refusal to reverse treatment of a child is due to our fear of losing face. Perhaps we ought to remember that empire builders who were so concerned with losing face that they couldn't retreat from bad decisions have lost their empires.

Some years ago, my work brought me into contact with a psychiatrist of distinguished reputation among his colleagues.

One day, I had occasion to read the case record of one of his child patients whom many clinics had failed to help. Toward the end of it, I came upon several pages recently dictated by the psychiatrist. They were headed "Reversal of Treatment Procedure." The opening paragraph began:

"My judgment of this child's needs has been mistaken . . . Did he finally succeed in reaching the unreachable child? Of course he did."

Our refusals to alter treatment of a youngster can bring us great confusion and unhappiness. If we are not worried about our child's opinion of us, but are interested in teaching him what he should learn, we should not find it hard at all to alter our unproductive treatment so that it serves our youngster instead of our personal prestige.

The reputation of the distinguished psychiatrist is not widely known beyond his own profession. He was one of the three or four people I have known in my life who was almost completely free of a need to justify himself. This disinterest in his reputation, in his personal prestige, freed his mind to serve many children.

After reading his dictation in that case record, I not only knew why he was respected as a technician, but why he was revered as a human being. Watching him in operation did much to teach me what power lies in humility.

Unless we reach for some of it, we won't be able to correct the positions into which impulse and anger betray us.

Experts to Check GI's

New York (AP)—The army will send a cold injury team of frostbite experts to Camp Drum, formerly Pine Camp, to insure the safety of GI's under conditions of extreme cold exposure during the winter maneuver, Exercise Snowfall, scheduled to start Feb. 9. The five-man team from the Army Medical Research Laboratory supervised treatment of frostbite victims last year in Japan. The troops will be examined beforehand and those found susceptible to frostbite will not be exposed to dangerous extremes of cold. The team will also indoctrinate troops in precautionary cold weather safety measures.

Coconut Tree Topplers

Penang, Malaya (AP)—A Malay woman and her four children narrowly escaped death in a village near here recently when a coconut tree, its roots undermined by heavy rains, toppled over and crashed into their kitchen. They were sleeping but a few feet away.

JACOBY ON BRIDGE

Don't Ruin a Hand By Poor Playing

By OSWALD JACOBY
Written for NEA Service

Harry Fishbein, the sage of the Mayfair Bridge Club, has the artists approach to a bridge hand. It hurts him when a good hand is butchered, even when it is an opponent that yields the cleaver.

In the hand shown today, Fishbein opened the deuce of hearts from the West hand. He expected dummy to show up with strength in hearts and clubs (actually dummy had far less in clubs than was proper for a sound re-bid of two no-trump) and hoped that declarer would mis-guess the hearts because of the opening lead.

Declarer did mis-guess by playing the eight of hearts from the dummy; but it was his best chance rather than a poor guess. East also mis-guessed by finessing the nine of hearts, which would have been correct if West's opening lead had been from the jack instead of the ace.

South won with the jack of hearts and promptly returned his singleton diamond. Fishbein took the ace of diamonds and returned another low heart. This time the clarer finally played low from dummy, and East's jack forced out the ace.

South had lost two hearts and a diamond, so he needed the rest of the tricks. He began the trumps by leading the deuce to dummy's king. This spoiled a very artistic hand and almost soured Fishbein's notoriously amiable disposition.

South should have led the four of spades to dummy's king, and should have dropped the seven of spades on dummy's ace. The deuce of spades had to be saved.

If this is done, declarer then leads high diamonds from the dummy, discarding two low clubs from his hand. The next diamond is ruffed by East and over-ruffed by South. Declarer can now lead the deuce of spades to dummy's three. And then the last diamond can be led to provide a discard for South's last low club.

Weekly Food Review

(By The Associated Press)
Food shoppers planning menus for the rest of the holidays are likely to find price reductions this week largely restricted to hams—a popular New Year's item—and party snack foods.

Both smoked and fresh hams were reduced about three to four cents a pound to top the advertised-specials list of many large chains and independent markets.

Geese also were being featured in some places, and at prices as much as six cents below the Thanksgiving Day levels.

Turkeys generally were being held at prices set just before Christmas. Most other meats, along with eggs, butter and the bulk of canned foods were unchanged.

Specialties Promoted
Party snacks and holiday specialties were being heavily promoted, most at slightly lower prices to attract the budget-conscious. The long list included fancy frozen shrimp, cookies and crackers, canned tuna, pickles, cheese, nuts, dried fruits, salad items and cold cuts, olives, oysters, candy and several fresh fruits headed by tangerines and grapes.

On the fresh produce counters, snap beans, carrots, mushrooms and eggplant were lower-priced this week, but cabbage, good cauliflower and onions edged a little higher. Lettuce, peppers and cucumbers continued relatively high-priced because of light shipments.

Seasonal Specialty

Seasonal specialty note: The first corn-on-the-cob of the winter crop from the Florida Everglades arrived in northern markets, and shipments of fresh strawberries were increasing. Avocados and limes also were available, and California was sending artichokes, though the big desirable sizes were fairly high.

The Agriculture Department stressed prunes and oranges as the week's most plentiful foods for thrifty buyers. And looking to January, the department offered this list of foods to be abundant nationally and hence likely to be comparatively low-priced:

Fresh oranges, tangerines, citrus juices, dried prunes, raisins, pork and pork products, heavy turkeys, hens, frozen ocean perch fillets, frozen whiting, canned tuna, nonfat dry milk solids, cottage cheese. Also, dry beans, including navy or pea beans, and baby limas, rice, honey, almonds and pecans.

Ickes Has Nerve Trouble

Washington, Dec. 27 (AP)—Harold L. Ickes, self-styled curmudgeon who was secretary of the interior from 1933 to 1946, is a patient in a local hospital suffering from what his wife described as "a mighty painful nerve root condition." Mrs. Ickes told a reporter yesterday her husband entered Georgetown University Hospital a week ago today. She said he is "getting along all right." She said: "It is no dread disease, but it does give considerable pain." Ickes, who is 77, lived on a nearby Maryland farm since he left the cabinet.

Course Arranged For Physicians to Start January 3

A comprehensive medical education program for graduate physicians in northern New York state, Western Vermont, and Massachusetts will start January 3, and continue through May 15. Dr. James A. Campbell, dean of Albany Medical College, announced today.

Dr. Campbell said that the program will consist of these five courses: Radiology, surgical advances in cardiology, general review, and final comprehensive review. The first course on radiology will start Thursday, January 3, at 2 p. m. in the X-ray amphitheater of Albany Hospital.

The 1952 program will include presentations by the members of the basic science departments of the college as well as those in the clinical departments, Dr. Campbell said. He also said that this year's program offered the physicians a more intensive study program than last year's, and he hoped that by 1953 it would be possible to offer courses in additional special fields such as anesthesiology, endocrinology, and hematology.

Announcements of the program are being sent to all physicians in this area, according to Dr. Campbell who said that the schedule of fees will be included in the announcements. The program is supported in part by the New York State Public Health Department.

Production of one ounce of insulin requires the pancreatic glands from 1,500 head of cattle.

maneuver bore fruit, since declarer played the ten of hearts from dummy, and East was able to win with the queen.

East recovered from his surprise at winning this trick in time to return a heart to Fishbein's hand. Fishbein now returned a club, and declarer agonized over a choice between the queen and nine from dummy.

Since East held both the king and jack of clubs the play from dummy made no difference, but South couldn't know that. De-

As Pegler Sees It

The members of the Medical Association had started as fighters for a cause but in a few months, "more like a rabble, we surrendered." One of the troubles was an overload of secretaries in the headquarters of B.M.A. However, the Fellowship for Freedom has not fought the Medical Association. The Fellows have kept their membership in the association and have tried to rebuild its backbone. This has caused some harsh feeling among the men of the profession but the attitude of the doctors who meekly or eagerly went along with the bureaucracy is the familiar surrender of business men tempted to join the Nazi Party in Germany or the Democratic Party in the United States in order to get contracts or in order not to suffer harassment.

The National Health Service began under the management of a man strangely like Ickes, a snarling, hateful fellow named Aneurin Bevan, who comes from Wales and has been diagnosed as a case who always wanted a good income and the abundant life and couldn't achieve them by normal work for which he had no gift, and, therefore, went into politics. As I have related, he cried up a class war against "Tories," who are at present about half the British population, and racial hatred against the Anglo-Saxons of England as distinguished from the Celts of Wales. Churchill said he needed psychiatric treatment and sneered at his war record which was not comparable to that of a young Tory officer of the guards, a kid crippled in battle, who kicked him down the front stairs of Savage's Club in Mayfair. The character was the man that Clement Attlee picked to administer so sensitive a deal as the relation between the nation's doctors and the nation's sick. And this man's wife, Jennie Lee, also a politician and a M.P., was imported to the United States, don't forget, by Americans for Democratic Action, the Socialist front of Dave Dubinsky, Francis Biddle, et al, who are running Harry Truman.

The Fellowship for Freedom has been carrying on the fight with no important result so far, but, thanks to the studies of this little group of doctors, many of the peculiarities of socialized medicine have been verified for the incidental information of Americans under a threat of similar infliction.

It probably would have been impossible, otherwise, for Americans to know that under socialized medicine in Britain, patients go whining to the doctor for "a bottle of medicine," that doctors, growing slack and weary, shove malingering into hospitals while more deserving patients wait for beds, and that many of the best citizens, refusing to "join" the service, have to pay full rates for medical care, hospital service and medicine, with no rebate from the state, although they pay the same social security taxes. This last is the squeeze that has forced many Britons onto the health service rolls to put up with careless, indifferent treatment from doctors who don't even bother to know them personally but treat them as "cases" of disease. If they don't accept the "service," they get no benefit from their taxes for that purpose which are compulsory.

Man Surrenders In Woman's Death

Cincinnati, Dec. 27 (AP)—The next thing I remember — I was going up the road with blood on my hands. I do not remember how I picked up the scissors or anything.

But Frank Christophel, 22, did tell Sheriff Dan Tehan of a conversation he said led up to the fatal stabbing of dark-haired, beautiful Mrs. Elizabeth (Betty) Sloan, 22, at her College Hill home yesterday.

The blond, thin-faced, ex-marine said he stopped at her home to object to the "way she was acting" and to tell her he planned to reenlist in the corps.

Betty accused me of cheating on her and called me a sucker. She slapped me in the face. I told her never slap me, never do that — and that's all I remember...

Mrs. Sloan's body, clothed except for her dress, was found on her bed. Twenty-four stab wounds had gouged into her chest, throat and head. A blow through the heart had killed her, Coroner Herbert P. Lyle said.

Police threw a dragnet for Christophel but he surrendered late yesterday.

Story Is Pieced

Detectives pieced together the story from Christophel's signed confession. This is what emerged:

Christophel, who had served three years with the Second Marine Division, had known Mrs. Sloan since May. She left her husband, Robert Sloan, in September and promised Christophel she would marry him after she got a divorce. The couple went together steadily.

Then last week—trouble began.

"I saw her Monday night and she told me she had cheated on me by dating another guy," Christophel stated, "she did not tell me who the other fellow was."

Said She Accused Him

When he saw her yesterday, he said, he told her there was "no sense" in his staying there. Then she accused him of cheating on her.

"She started laughing and called me a sucker and slapped me. I told her never to slap me, never do that—and that's all I remember."

Police said Christophel drove to the home of his brother, Carl, with whom he lived near Bevis, and told his brother's wife, "I killed Betty with a pair of scissors." Then he washed his hands.

Christophel, asked by a detective what the last thing was that he remembered Betty saying to him, whispered it was:

"I love you, I love you..."

Lurid Court Reporting

Rome, (AP)—Italy is thinking of doing something about the lurid court reporting which makes foreign editors gasp. The Italian press skips nothing in stories of trials. Details of crimes, sex perversion, dope addiction and other subjects which American and British editors would blue-pencil are described in detail. A bill prepared for submission to the Chamber of Deputies would change all this. At present the press can publish anything brought up in court and it is privileged. The new law would allow publication of prosecution charges, defense pleas and established facts.

Vogeler Plans Ransom Fund

Robert A. Vogeler, who spent 17 months in a Hungarian prison cell as an American "spy," holds aloft telegrams and letters in his New York apartment as he announced he is going ahead with plans to raise $120,000 to pay fines of four U. S. fliers held by Hungary despite U. S. State Department's announcement that the government would pay for their release. Letters and telegrams contained money and pledges for the fund.

More Cold Weather Brings Prospects Of Additional Snow

(By The Associated Press)

Another frigid blast hit the snow-covered north central region today and more snow was on the way. No relief from the wintry weather appeared immediately, U. S. forecasters said.

The cold extended across the eastern two-thirds of the nation, touching all the way to the Gulf coast.

The sub-zero weather in the Midwest struck at travel and production in many cities slowed because of the heavy snowfalls in the last two weeks.

Two midwest metropolitan centers, Chicago and Detroit, appeared the hardest hit by the transportation tieup. There have been record snowfalls in both cities this month and traffic and mass transportation was still snarled in many sections.

The fresh icy air from northwestern Canada sent temperatures tumbling to far below zero in the Dakotas, Minnesota, Wisconsin, Iowa and northern Illinois early today. It was -20 in Redwood Falls, Minn. Some sub-zero readings also were reported in northern New England.

Cold Air Moves Along

The cold air moved southward and eastward from Montana and sent temperatures to near freezing as far south as Mobile, Ala. It was expected to be colder in the eastern states tomorrow.

Snow was forecast for the north central region tonight. Snow fell early today in the northern Rockies and snow mixed with rain hit parts of Washington and Oregon. Some rain fell in northern Florida.

Every available piece of snow removal equipment was being utilized to help get Chicago's 3,700 miles of streets and boulevards open. The city has had a record snowfall of more than 33 inches in December. Thousands of cars—the estimates ran as high as more than 100,000—were stalled in Chicago's latest snowstorm on Christmas Eve.

Adding to the problem in the nation's second largest city was a scarcity of skid chains and snow tires—and shovels. An official of one auto tire store said 122,000 sets of emergency chains and 17,000 sets of full chains had been sold. Sale of snow tires, he said, had increased 400 per cent over last year.

Fuel Shortage

Harrogate, England, (AP)—British businessmen were urged here to "cast out from your works and office and canteens all electric radiators and water heaters and cookers and replace them with something more thermally efficient. The plea was made to the Fall Conference of the British Institute of Management by B. E. A. Vigers, a London fuel efficiency expert. Stressing the seriousness of Britain's fuel shortage, Vigers said if too many people left fuel economy to the other fellow British industrialists will all go down together.

Do You Remember

By SOPHIE MILLER

Well, the snows have come, but the youngsters just don't have sleighs and are not prepared for this sort of weather. It is just as well, for with all the cars, a youngster with a sleigh is a dangerous past-time. I remember when I was a teen-ager or younger, I didn't have a fancy sleigh but it had sharp runners and down Meadow street I would go. Irving Lehner in those days owned a home-made bob-sled that could seat some eight of us. He had running boards on it and everything. Those were the days before the Rondout Bridge was built. We would start at the top of Wurts street and ride down to Abeel where we would turn towards Broadway. We all yelled to scare the horses away and other vehicles.

My sleigh had many uses, for when my father needed some small items delivered from nearby it would be used for delivery purposes in the winter. I remember several times my father loaned the sleigh to Jack Lehner when we were both going to No. 3 School. For that, Jack would give me a ride home on my own sleigh and believe me I had to hold on, for he could run like lightning. Irving Lehner worked in our store in those years, and sometimes I carried on that I wanted to go ice-skating somewhere near Wilbur. So my father used to let Irving take me, and take his skates. My father was a good skater but Irving wasn't. I had shoe skates but never became proficient on them, like going backwards or making figure eight.

Going skating near Wilbur was some walk from Broadway and Abeel street and usually my feet got so cold, I cried, and Irving had to massage them. Why I went again, I don't know, because in those days there was no place to warm yourself. Later on many folks used to go skating on the Rondout creek up to and under the Wilbur bridge. I remember John Finnerty, principal of No. 5, he was a very good skater. Steve Merickie and Mayor Canfield and his family also skated there. Anytime I remember many prominent looking people were in the ice and all talked to each other. On the Port Ewen side you had a very good big board to walk down to the ice, but on the Kingston side, it was a very narrow stony board with water and ice around it.

Those were days when my father used to phone Mrs. Rodman to meet us at Slightsbury with the horse and buggy to take us up the icy cold hill. There was no place to wait and we were very glad when Mrs. Rodman finally arrived and we could get under the big fur blanket. So much time was spent out in the open, there was need for warm clothing, long stockings over long underwear. Cookies and tea were never enough refreshments for us. We all had wonderful appetites and consumed lots of meat, vegetables and cakes and puddings. A sandwich and a lettuce leaf would never do for me in those days. I wonder how many folks remember skating on the Rondout creek before the Rondout creek bridge was built.

Marries Former Priest

Milan, Italy, Dec. 27 (AP)—Claire Young, a blonde Chicago girl, 21, was married today to Lucian Negrini, 43, a former Roman Catholic priest and missionary. The way to marriage had been tangled with red tape that took months to untangle. Claire gave up her American citizenship. Negrini was defrocked by the church during their romance. The ceremony took place in Milan's city hall.

Wanger Eyes Man Who'll Prosecute

Walter Wanger alone knows the thoughts that crossed his mind when he was confronted in Santa Monica, Cal., court by Deputy District Attorney A. A. Alexander (right), the man charged with prosecuting him for the parking lot shooting of agent Jennings Lang, but this picture records his expression. He was arraigned on a charge of assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder. (AP Wirephoto).

ULSTER PARK

Ulster Park, Dec. 27—There will be regular preaching service in the Ulster Park Reformed Dutch Church Sunday at 9:45 a. m. by the pastor, the Rev. Harry E. Christians.

The Christmas party Saturday for the congregation in charge of the League for Service of the Reformed Church was well attended. There were 60 for the supper and many enjoyed the movies and program around the tree.

The next meeting of Ulster Grange will be held January 2 at 8 p. m. in the Grange Hall. The committee is composed of Mr. and Mrs. C. C. DuMont, Jr., Mr. and Mrs. Sol Rosenthal, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Polhemus, Howard R. St. John and Mrs. Robert Campbell.

Mrs. Charlotte A. Peck and son Teddy of Kingston were guests of the Gendreau family Christmas day.

Mr. and Mrs. Holt N. Winfield, Jr., of Stopy Point and Mr. and Mrs. Charles Snyder of Kingston spent Christmas with Mr. and Mrs. H. N. Winfield.

Earle O. Terwilliger is expected home from Vassar Hospital in a week or two.

Mr. and Mrs. C. C. DuMont, Sr., of Albany spent the weekend with their son and family.

R. C. Gendreau went Wednesday to Washington, D. C., by plane. He will return from his business trip the end of the week.

Diary, Reports To Be Introduced At Wanger Trial

Santa Monica, Calif., Dec. 27 (AP)—Walter Wanger's diary and reports of private detectives he hired to shadow his wife, Joan Bennett, and her agent, Jennings Lang, will be introduced at Wanger's trial for shooting Lang.

Wanger's attorney, Jerry Giesler, so asserted yesterday. He won a continuance until Jan. 7 for Wanger to plead to a grand jury indictment charging assault with a deadly weapon with intent to commit murder. He told the court he will insist that the detectives' reports and the diary be made available, "on one side or the other."

Adolph Alexander, deputy district attorney, assured Giesler the state will present all its evidence.

To Plead Innocent
Giesler indicated later that Wanger will plead innocent and that the detectives' report will play an important part in his defense.

At Giesler's request, the court issued a bench warrant, carrying a $2,500 bond, when Lang failed to appear at Wanger's arraignment yesterday in response to a subpoena. Lang, wounded in the groin when Wanger found him talking to Miss Bennett in a Beverly Hills parking lot Dec. 13, is recovering at his home.

Dr. Marcus Crahan, county jail physician, accompanied a sheriff's detective to Lang's home to serve the bench warrant. Both agreed, however, that Lang was in no condition to appear in court, and Superior Judge Thurlow Taft said the warrant would be withdrawn today.

Patients' Service Is Helped by Money From TB Stamps

One of the many uses to which Christmas Seals funds are put in Ulster county is in services to help the county's tuberculosis patients adjust to hospital life through the Patients Service Committee work; also, provision of transportation for the medically indigent to the chest clinics, according to Edmund P. Rochford, chairman of the Patients Service Committee and one of the vice-presidents of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

Rochford said the program of the Patients Service Committee is to work with the medical director and the staff of the Ulster County Tuberculosis Hospital in providing certain needs and comforts for the patients' welfare. This is an important part of the tuberculosis prevention program, for much can be done to enhance the stay of the patient at the hospital. Each year, a certain per cent of Christmas Seals money is added to the Joseph M. Fowler Fund which was set up in memory of Judge Joseph M. Fowler, the first president of the Ulster County Tuberculosis and Health Association.

A Christmas party for the patients at the Ulster County TB Hospital will be held on Thursday evening under the sponsorship of the Patients Service Committee. Santa Claus will present gifts to the patients from the Christmas tree and refreshments will be served. The party is being arranged by the entire membership of the service committee which represents various organizations in the city and county.

200,000th Casualty Carried by Airplanes

Tokyo, Dec. 27 (AP)—The planes which evacuate wounded Allied soldiers from Korea carried their 200,000th casualty today.

He was a Belgian private—Albert Keirle of Ploegstert. Air evacuation officers explained that the 200,000 figure did not represent that many casualties since some men have been flown from one area to another several times. Each trip made by a wounded man is counted as one lift.

Four Found Dead In Connecticut in Murder, Suicide

Manchester, Conn., Dec. 27 (AP)—Four persons were found shot to death today in the home of W. Harry England, wealthy lumberman and builder.

Police identified them as England himself, his wife, and two of their eight children, Jane, 24, and Jonathan, 4.

Police Chief Herman O. Schendel said that it appeared that England had killed his wife and two children and then had committed suicide.

Mrs. England had a divorce action pending in Superior Court.

First word of the tragedy came to police from England's brother, George.

Only last week, the State Supreme Court upheld a Superior Court verdict granting Mrs. England $500 a month in alimony and $2,600 for lawyers and court costs pending the outcome of her divorce action. She filed the divorce suit in March, 1950.

England's real estate holdings alone were then listed as worth more than $200,000.

Miss England was employed as a clerk in Hartford. She was a graduate of Colby Junior College of New London, N. H.

opened, said he was optimistic that a compromise can be reached.

He explained he and Schuman had discussed French and Italian viewpoints on the European army and had found their two nations in accord on main issues.

Might Make Concessions

Schuman, who reported to an inner cabinet meeting earlier in the day on the army project, told correspondents that France might make concessions on the plan during a transitional period, but that she is determined to know what will come after such a period.

"We cannot throw ourselves on a precarious provisional basis into an experience without knowing what will follow such a provisional period," he said.

"We must consequently agree not merely on what happens in the transitional period but also on what comes afterward."

"There was some basis for hope that a compromise could be worked out making one man a sort of European defense minister whose task would be to recruit an army of 43 divisions in the next three years."

12 Divisions Each

France and Italy would provide 12 divisions each. Germany's proposed 14 divisions and the five from the Benelux countries—Belgium, The Netherlands and Luxembourg—would be stripped-down versions of not more than 13,000 men each.

They would be merged into international corps and armies and their supply lines would be strictly international.

Optimism that agreement could be reached was based mainly on reports that the French would be willing to compromise simply to get the European army formed.

The French seem to think organizational differences can be solved later after a trial period of one to three years of actual practice.

Two Big Differences

Two main differences confront the delegates in addition to the comparatively minor problem of whether the European army shall be headed by a single high commissioner or a governing body of defense ministers of all six nations.

The main points are (1) whether to draft a common budget for the army and levy taxes against the six countries to finance it and (2) whether to allow any of the six member countries to exercise veto power over plans for army expansion or operation.

Delegates are expected to work through Saturday getting their plan ready for consideration at the meeting of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization (NATO) Council at Lisbon Feb. 2.

If they make it, the entire European army would be turned over to General Eisenhower as part of the Allied defense force.

ment 28 years, Finch 22 and Egan 13.

The statement continued: "The remaining men who have fallen under this shadow of misconduct in office will be given suitable disciplinary action after all the facts have been brought before me. If they choose to, they may submit resignations, but I shall reserve the right to reject them."

At the crime commission's public hearing in Hudson last week, Sherwood Howard, Sr., said he had seen Haight visit Benjamin Goldstein when the latter was operating a numbers game. Howard said he had been employed by Goldstein.

Other witnesses testified that gamblers expecting protection had made "contributions" to city and county officials and politicians.

Jesse McDarby said in a deposition that he had seen Haight a couple of times a week for seven years at a house of prostitution.

State Trooper J. A. Vann said Egan and Finch were in a Hudson brothel June 23, 1950, when state police raided it.

For Change of Flavor

Add a little prepared mustard and Worcestershire sauce to melted butter or margarine and serve over cooked snap beans for a flavor change. Snap beans are also delicious mixed with sauteed mushrooms and cream sauce.

Seminarians Entertain Here

The rural carolers, comprised of 25 seminarians from St. Joseph's Seminary, Dunwoodie, Yonkers, entertained the patients at the Benedictine Hospital, the Tuberculosis Hospital and the residents of the Home for the Aged, on the evening of December 26. This was but a part of a two-day tour by the seminarians which also included performances at the Orange County Home in Goshen, the State Hospital in Middletown, the Wingdale Home in Dover Plains, the Veterans Hospital at Castle Point, and two penal institutions in Westchester county.

While in Kingston the seminarians were entertained at the homes of Mr. and Mrs. Henry J. Bruck and Mr. and Mrs. George W. Moore. Local residents in the group are Richard Claire, Robert Saccamano, and George Moore.

It is the hope of the seminarians and of those whom they entertained that this is the start of a happy tradition. (Freeman Photo) prisoners the Reds said Wednesday had died, escaped or been released.

He asked Lee to state specifically how each of the 571 men died, where they died and where they were buried. A written Red report said the prisoners died of illness or were killed in air attacks or by artillery while being marched from the front.

Libby also asked when and where 152 Americans escaped and when and where three others were released.

Not Held in China

The Reds said neither allied war prisoners nor internees were being held in China.

Libby said the denial was "difficult to believe" in the light of information held by the allies.

Libby's line of questioning was a continuation of UN efforts to learn the fate of more than 50,000 missing allies, most of them South Koreans.

The Reds had some complaints of their own about the allied prisoner list.

The UN command explained it did not include the names of 1,450 prisoners on its list because the men would not identify themselves.

The UN said approximately 40,000 names forwarded to the Red Cross were not on the prisoner list because they had been reclassified as South Korean civilians.

While the Reds agreed verbally to limit their armed strength during an armistice, Hsieh emphasized that they would not accept an allied proposed ban on airfield construction and other limitations.

"Our side firmly holds to our right to deal with our own internal affairs," Hsieh said.

"The question of reconnaissance into our territorial air will not be

Korean Lull Is Expected to Last

Seoul, Korea, Friday, Dec. 28

(P)—It appeared almost certain today that the lull in Korean ground fighting would linger on despite end of a 30-day "trial" period on a provisional buffer zone.

Gen. James A. Van Fleet, U. S. Eighth Army commander, was in a South Korea rear area Thursday.

If anything big militarily were planned or expected, it seemed certain the general would be on the front line or at his headquarters.

Van Fleet recently told this Associated Press correspondent: "We will not sacrifice our men needlessly. What is the use of thousands of casualties if it is questionable what good they would do?"

"However, the Eighth Army and UN attached units stand ready to do the job they have to do. And we intend to accomplish our mission from a military standpoint in Korea."

(This mission has been defined as to repel aggression.)

(In relaying this dispatch, the Tokyo bureau of the Associated Press noted that it was the first time the censor had passed such a statement from Van Fleet but that the circumstances were withheld and the time could be given only as "several days ago.")

Russia Accepts

ment counselor and recently chief of Secretary of State Acheson's policy planning staff, is now on leave with the Princeton University Institute for Advanced Studies. He is expected to take over the ambassadorship probably in April.

Shore said his nomination would be submitted to the Senate for confirmation soon after Congress reconvenes. There has been no indication of opposition to Kennan. Mr. Truman said last month he was under consideration.

Kennan has had long experience in dealing with the Soviets, previous service in the embassy at Moscow, and speaks the Russian language fluently.

Officials wrote off the Communist attacks on him as a new instance of the manner in which Moscow seizes opportunities to make propaganda. They expressed doubt that Kennan would be more handicapped in dealing with the Kremlin than were the seven other men who have headed the American mission to Moscow since the U. S. extended diplomatic recognition to the Soviet regime in 1933.

Pravda, the official Communist Party newspaper, yesterday called him a supporter of anti-Soviet organizations and listed among these the east European Fund of the Ford Foundation, from which Kennan resigned Nov. 23, officials said he was concerned only with aid for refugees from the Soviet bloc and not with any anti-Russian activities.

In New York, the East European Fund denied it financed anti-Soviet activities. The fund in a statement said it "is a non-political, non-propagandist and non-partisan organization."

On Dec. 3, Radio Moscow pictured Kennan as a foe of the Soviets. It listed him, along with former ambassadors Kirk and W. Averell Harriman, as "shady persons who are usually spies of long standing."

The State Department a month ago asked the Soviet Foreign Office for an agreement that Kennan would be received. The reply, given orally, was favorable. However, the White House delayed a formal announcement, apparently in the expectation that there might be a written confirmation from Moscow, which never came.

Retain Vitamin C

Fortunately, when orange, grapefruit, and tomato juice are canned, almost all of their vitamin C is protected. We need to have adequate amounts of vitamin C (ascorbic acid) daily since our bodies do not store it.

Drive-In Bank . . . Hiltebrants Get Sweepers Contract

plication has been filed with the proper authorities.

Because the applying institution is a national bank, the application must ultimately be approved by the U. S. comptroller of currency at Washington, D. C., before the contemplated branch can be established.

Steps Are Included

Required processing of the application includes several steps, including a survey of local conditions by bank examiners. Final decision on the application, therefore, is not expected immediately.

The property on which the establishment of the branch is contemplated is that recently purchased by Dwyer Lighterage, Inc., from Mildred V. Byrne and Ruth L. Rich, formerly partners operating Byrne Brothers monument business. Dwyer, who is president of Rondout National Bank, is also president of the lighterage company.

Asked whether the branch bank, if approved and established, will include facilities for drive-in banking, Dwyer said such a possibility will be considered. "We feel that is possible with that piece of property," he said.

With automobile parking an increasing problem in Kingston, the amount of potential parking space in the Byrne property was a major factor in selecting that property, Dwyer revealed.

Popular, Is Report

Drive-in banks are becoming increasingly popular not only in the south and west, but also in this area. At present there are banks with drive-in banking facilities at Arlington near Poughkeepsie, on the outskirts of Albany and at Wallkill.

With the sale of the Broadway property, announcement was made that the partnership of Mrs. Byrne and Mrs. Rich dissolved and Mrs. Byrne became sole owner of the monument business. When announcement was made on Dec. 7 of the contract to purchase, it was revealed that plans were being made to move the monument business to a new location, and that the business would continue with its present personnel.

Science Has Way To Predict Height

By HOWARD W. BLAKESLEE

Philadelphia, Dec. 27 (AP)—If you want to know how tall your child will be, science has a sure way of telling, beginning just before the teen years.

The method was explained today by Dr. Nancy Bayley, Dr. Alta Gordon and Edward Bowes of the University of California Institute of Child Welfare. They addressed a second-day session of the 118th annual meeting of the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

The scientists reported they take X-ray pictures of the joints of hand, wrist and knee. The bone development at these three points, they said, tells a child's maturity better than any other available test. These connections at joints mature at various rates but never uniformly.

The studies with X-ray began at the age of 8. At about 12, these bones become a quite accurate predictor of the final heights of a boy or girl.

Experiments Are Made

Science is also on the way to new and better substitutes for the arms, legs and hands of amputees. Experiments are being made with electronics, hydraulics, suction and all the latest devices of engineering to improve substitute limbs.

The experiments were explained by Dr. Sidney Fishman, of New York University College of Engineering. The work is done nationally by three teams of scientists, doctors, psychologists and engineers.

Teams of amputees, men chosen because of their success in using the common false limbs try the improved arms, legs and hands. If the new ones prove safe they go on a national trial by 100 amputees, usually arranged for by the Veterans Administration.

If the new limb works for these 100 it is offered to everyone. Dr. Fishman said that the medical men have to find out what muscles and other remnants of limbs can do. The psychologists have to give the doctors and psychologists workable substitutes for natural motions which will not be beyond what an amputee can learn.

New TB Antibiotic

A new antibiotic for tuberculosis was reported from the National Institute of Health, Bethesda, Md., by Drs. E. W. Emmart and J. C. Keresztesy. It is called nocardin and comes from a fungus.

So far all tests have been confined to animals and test tubes containing human tuberculosis germs. The institutes are working on making the substance more potent. They did not predict what its human effects will be.

In another report to the association it was explained how our military scientists are using radioactive atoms to protect optical instruments—lenses, rangefinders, periscopes, cameras—from fungi. Tropical fungi spread chemicals which etch the glass. The radio-

Give a 'Lucky New Year' Party

A LUCKY NEW YEAR—party with soft drinks and wishbones, for-tune turnovers and delicious midnight cake.

By GAYNOR MADDOX

NEA Food and Markets Editor
You'll have good luck with this New Year's party for the high school set (and any fun-loving set) who like their eats hearty and their soft drinks bubbly.

Let the theme be "May Your Wish Come True in '52." Pastry turnovers, substantially filled, have fortunes in little pockets. Paper wishbones are tied with ribbon on bottled carbonated beverages to carry out the idea. And at the stroke of 12, they'll cut the Midnight Cake—chocolate layers iced in white, and decorated as a clock's face with chocolate numerals.

Fortune Turnovers
Allow one package of pie crust mix for each six turnovers. Prepare pastry according to directions on package. Roll out as thin as possible and cut into 5-inch squares. Place filling in center of each square and fold to form triangle. Moisten edges with milk. Fold bottom edges over top to seal, then crimp edges with fingertips. Prick to allow steam to escape.

To make fortune pockets: Cut small triangles from leftover dough. Moisten two edges with milk. Seal these two edges to top of filled turnover and leave third edge open and dry to allow paper fortune to be inserted. Brush entire turnover with milk. Before baking, place small folded slip of paper in each pocket (remove and replace with actual "fortune" before serving). Bake on cookie sheet at 350 degrees F. (moderate oven) for 30 minutes, or until brown. Write or type amusing "fortunes" on small slips of paper, and watch the fun!

Turnover Fillings
(Each fills 3 turnovers)
Bacon and Cheese: One-third cup sharp Cheddar cheese, grated, blended with 6 strips crisp cooked bacon, chopped.

Flash Salad: One-third cup flaked tuna fish blended with 3 tablespoons minced green pepper and 3 tablespoons minced celery; moisten with mayonnaise.

Ham Hash: One-third cup chopped cooked ham blended with 6 tablespoons mashed potato and 1 teaspoon grated onion.

Tomorrow's Menu
BREAKFAST: Stewed dried fruit, ready-to-eat cereal, French toast, syrup or honey, coffee, milk.

LUNCHEON: Tomato juice, fortune turnovers with ham hash or fish salad fillings, raw carrot sticks, creamy rice pudding with ground nuts, tea, milk.

DINNER: Tuna fish ring with fluffy rice, tomato sauce, buttered broccoli, enriched bread, butter or fortified margarine, apple crisp, hard sauce, coffee, milk.

"A Family of Jewelers for Over a Century"

Miss Velma A. Personeus, a private in the Women's Army Corps, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gould Personeus of Shokan, was married to Sergeant Edward Lane, a paratrooper attached to an airborne division at Fort Benning, Ga., whose home is in Suwanee, Okla., Monday, Dec. 24, at the Shokan Reformed Church parsonage. The Rev. Richard Coons, pastor, officiated at the ceremony.

Mrs. Personeus, mother of the bride, and Mrs. Earl Elmendorf were the honor attendants.

Mrs. Lane graduated from Kingston High School and for a time was in training at an army school in Fort Knox, Ky., before assignment to her present location at Fort Belvoir, Va.

At the expiration of the couple's 10-day furloughs they will return to their respective posts.

Personal Notes

Miss Mary Ann Dwyer, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William J. Dwyer, 83 Highland avenue, will entertain 50 guests this evening at her home prior to their attendance at the Bachelors and Spinsters Ball being held at the Governor Clinton Hotel.

Miss Barbara, a student at Marymount Junior College, Arlington, Va., has as her holiday guest, her two cousins, Dennis and Eugene Dwyer of Pelham.

Mrs. Howard Gaynor, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Garrey Sutton, has returned from California where she visited with her husband, Corporal Gaynor, before he left for overseas duty. During his 25-days' leave, Corporal and Mrs. Gaynor motored through the Southern and North Central states and then flew to Los Angeles. Mrs. M. Barrows, whose husband, Corporal Barrows, is stationed in Germany with the 43rd Division, accompanied the Gaynors to the west coast. En route, they visited Colonel and Mrs. J. Guenther and their family. Mrs. Guenther is Corporal Gaynor's sister.

Mrs. Gaynor and Mrs. Barrows will reside at 493 Wilbur avenue while their husbands are in service.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Winne and daughter, Lauren, of Oneonta, have returned to their home after spending Christmas day with his mother, Mrs. Edith Winne, 280 Washington avenue.

Miss Alice Van Aken of Washington, D. C., is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Herbert G. Van Aken, 175 Ten Broeck avenue.

Barbara Van Neuren Honored at Dinner

Miss Barbara Van Neuren, former religious education director of the Old First Dutch Church, was the guest of honor at a farewell party given by a group of friends from the church. Miss Van Neuren has returned to her home at 1056 Dick avenue NW, Grand Rapids, Mich.

Those attending the dinner were Mr. and Mrs. Henry C. Page, Mrs. Kenneth Martin, Mr. and Mrs. Warren W. Simon, Mrs. Ruth Freidell, Donald Romme and Howard Houghtaling.

Recognition Sunday At St. James Church

Recognition Sunday will be observed this year on Dec. 30 by the Woman's Society for Christian Service of St. James Methodist Church. The ladies have invited all college students home for the holidays to attend a breakfast to be served at the church at 8 a. m. Following the breakfast some of the students will take part in the 11 a. m. service.

Wed on Christmas Day in St. Mary's Church

MR. AND MRS. FRANK POLACCO

Miss Norma Louise Cozza, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Cozza, 33 Gill street, was married to Frank Polacco, son of Mr. and Mrs. John Polacco of Glasco, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon on Christmas Day in St. Mary's Church. The Rev. Edward I. Farrelly, assistant pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony. A reception for 50 guests followed at the home of the bride's parents. (Crosby Photo)

Miss Evalyn Plank Is Married Sunday To Howard D. Lesh

Miss Evalyn Plank, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Plank of Marlborough, was married to Howard D. Lesh, son of Mrs. Derwood D. Lesh and the late Mr. Lesh of New Castle, Pa., Sunday, at 6 p. m. in the First Presbyterian Church of Marlborough. The Rev. Marshall L. Smith, pastor, officiated at the double ring ceremony. A reception for 100 guests followed at the Green Room of the Hotel Newburgh.

The bride wore an antique ivory satin crepe gown trimmed in rose point lace which had belonged to her great grandmother and which the bride's mother wore when she was married. With it, she wore a Spanish lace mantilla, and carried a bouquet of white orchids and carnations as well as a handkerchief edged in rose point lace also made by her great grandmother and carried at their wedding by her grandmother and mother. Her pearl necklace, a family heirloom was a wedding gift to the bride from her grandmother.

Mrs. James Malcolm of Beckley, W. Va., was the matron of honor. With her white lace, silk and net gown, she wore a stole of red velvet, a tiara of red carnations and carried a white fur muff with red carnations and holly.

Miss Margaret Decker of Marlborough and Miss Jacqueline Nolin of New York were bridesmaids. They wore white lace, silk, and net gowns and white lace stoles and coronets of green carnations and carried white fur muffs adorned with green carnations and holly.

The bride's mother chose an aqua green gown of lace and chiffon with pink accessories. The groom's mother was unable to be present.

Barton A. Harris of Marlborough was the groom's best man. John B. Hepworth and Robert Gervais of Milton and J. Calvin Wygant, III, of Marlborough served as ushers.

For the candlelight ceremony, the church was decorated with Christmas greens, small Christmas trees, baskets of white chrysanthemums, holly, poinsettias, and red and white candles. Wedding music was played by Clarence Spitzer, organist.

Following a short wedding trip, the couple will reside in Marlborough. For traveling the bride chose a black wool crepe dressmaker suit with black velvet trim and turquoise and black accessories.

Mrs. Lesh is a graduate of Marlborough Central High School, class of '46, and has attended Cazenovia Junior College, Alma College in Michigan and New York University and has taken technical courses at Manhattan School of Printing.

Mr. Lesh is a graduate of the Pittsburgh Institute of Aeronautics and has taken graphic arts courses in New York city and Chicago. During World War 2, he served with the United States Air Forces.

Mr. and Mrs. Lesh operate the L. and P. Typographic Service in Marlborough.

View to Be Heard

Cincinnati (AP)—The University of Cincinnati is going to provide for the masculine as well as the feminine point of view in preparing future teachers for handling primary and intermediate grades. According to Carter V. Good, dean of the Teacher's College of the university, one man and one woman will be assigned as a team to see that both outlooks are presented to the future teachers of the three R's.

Highway Tea Party

London (AP)—Englishmen can have a tea party right on the highway with the aid of a new gadget manufactured by a British firm. It's a tea—or coffee-maker that operates from a 12-volt auto battery and produces 1½ pints. It is claimed that 1½ teaspoonful of tea will give up to 12 cups.

Music Appreciation Group Discusses Life and Works of Composer Bellini

The life and works of Vincenzo Bellini, Italian composer, were described in a paper read by Mrs. Charles Terwilliger to members of the Music Appreciation group of the YWCA Women's Club last week at the home of Mrs. John B. Sterley, 189 Manor avenue. A discussion of three operas by the noted composer followed the reading and was led by Mrs. Boyd N. Williams.

Before completing Norma, an opera in four acts written in 1831, which established the fame of this composer, he had written other successful operas including La Sonnambula and I Capuleti e i Montecchi. La Sonnambula was the first of Bellini's operas to indicate the extent of his creative powers. His last finished work written to order in 1834 for the Theatre Italien in Paris was a great success.

Although best known for his operatic endeavors, Bellini, son and pupil of an organist and later sponsored by an Italian nobleman at the Naples Conservatory, as a student, composed a symphony, two masses, several psalms and a cantata. At the conservatory he studied under Furno, Tritto and Zingarelli. He also studied privately with Haydn and Mozart.

His first opera, Adelson e Salvini was written when the composer was 25 years of age. Its performance by pupils at the conservatory resulted in a commission from the manager of La Scala Milan to write an opera. Bianca e Fernando was written and produced with great success in 1826. Numerous other operas, some unsuccessful, followed during the short span of life allotted to the noted composer who died near Paris, France, in 1835, at the age of 33 years.

Bellini's Work

Bellini's work abounds in delightful, spontaneous melodies. To describe his compositions, Mrs. Terwilliger quoted the Italian composer, Pizzetti, when she read, "Bellini has created a song that is ample, marvelous and unique. Unique is the song of the final scene of Norma, unique is the one which accompanies the closing of the first act of the Sonnambula and unique is the song which can be found in the most important scenes of Puritani." She also recalled the tribute given by the eminent opera composer, Richard Wagner, when he wrote of Bellini, "never will I forget the impression which his operas made upon me at a time when simple and noble song manifested itself as something new to me."

Creative Methods

Because of a natural curiosity on the part of the members, Mrs. Terwilliger concluded her paper by recounting the method Bellini employed in his creative work, and which he had recorded. It states in part, "I study attentively the dispositions of the characters, the passions which sway them and the sentiments which they express. Possessed by the feelings of each of them, I imagine myself for the moment to have become the one who is speaking, and I make an effort to feel like him, and to express myself in his manner. Knowing that music results from the employment of a variety of sounds, and that the passions of mankind manifest themselves by means of utterances of diverse tones, I have reproduced the language of passion in my art through incessant observation." In his records, the composer also described the building of the characters in the drama and finally the transferring of his results in the form of notes on paper.

The hostesses on this occasion were Mrs. John B. Sterley and Mrs. Henry Millonir. Miss Florence Cordis poured the tea which followed the meeting.

Choices Reported For Investigation

New York, Dec. 27 (AP)—The New York Times says President Truman is reported to have chosen two of three members for a special commission to investigate and expose wrongdoers in government.

In a story from Independence, Mo., The Times reported Mr. Truman is said to be still seeking a young and widely-known investigator to complete the inquiry team.

(No immediate comment on The Times story was available from White House sources in Washington or Independence.)

The Times story, by W. H. Lawrence, declared that the President is said to have obtained acceptance from one Republican and one Democrat, whose names were withheld pending completion of the three-man panel.

Lawrence said the still-unselected board member replaces Federal Judge Thomas F. Murphy, of New York, who reportedly has withdrawn his acceptance to head the inquiry.

Daytime Burglar

Montreal (AP)—Police testified that an accused burglar here reversed the usual procedure, posing as an honest citizen by night and raiding apartments in the daytime. He pleaded guilty to 12 burglaries.

THIS FAULT MUST BE CORRECTED

A distressed wife writes: "I am married to the most wonderful man in the world—except for one thing! His table manners are revolting, and every time we go out to dine I am embarrassed to death. I don't like to nag him about this but it really is getting me down. Have you any suggestions as to what I can do to correct him of this one fault?"

This is a very serious matter! If his table manners are really as bad as you imply, you must do something drastic about it or you will find yourselves invited out less and less and before long not at all! How best to make him understand the seriousness of this one fault—I don't know, further than to explain to him that the niceties of life are things of real importance to you, and ask him if he won't, for your sake, pay attention to his table manners.

Hostess Receiving Gift

Dear Mrs. Post: I never know what to do when someone hands me a gift in the presence of others. Should I keep it for later, or open it immediately, and if it happens to be candy, must I pass the box around?

Answer: Correctly, you should open any gift that is handed to you. If it is candy, you should proffer it. On the other hand, if very many guests are present and the box is small, it might be excusable to thank the giver, then lay the unopened gift aside!

Seating in Restaurant

Dear Mrs. Post: Will you please tell me the correct seating of a husband and wife and a woman friend in a restaurant?

Answer: In an alcove, the two women sit next to the wall and the man sits beside her who is not related to him. At a small table, the man would seat his wife on the left or opposite him, and the woman friend on his right.

Where do the bride and groom stand in the receiving line? Mrs. Post is sorry she cannot answer personal mail. However, questions about the wedding procedure, the receiving line and other details are included in leaflet E-2. To obtain a copy, send 10 cents in coin to her, in care The Kingston Daily Freeman, P. O. Box 99, Station G, New York 19, N. Y.

Schroeder, Trabert Victims of Slaughter

Sydney, Australia, Dec. 27 (AP)—Australia virtually wrapped up the Davis Cup today when its great doubles team of Frank Sedgman and Ken McGregor slaughtered America's best pair of Ted Schroeder and Tony Trabert, 6-2, 9-7, 6-3.

The American debacle was a sad disappointment to the capacity crowd of 15,300 at White City Stadium. They had anticipated a hard fought tennis match. The Australians now lead, 2 to 1, in the best-of-five matches. The final two singles matches will be played tomorrow.

Schroeder, possibly weary from his fine stand against Sedgman yesterday, failed his youthful partner completely. Towards the last of the one-sided tilt Schroeder was a pathetic figure.

He scored only three placements in the entire match to 17 by Trabert, 24 by Sedgman and 19 by McGregor. The way he played today he will be extremely lucky to defeat Mervyn Rose in tomorrow's opening match.

Australia could well retain the cup by a 4-1 margin as Sedgman now is at the absolute peak of his career and will be heavily favored to trim Vic Seixas in the final singles match.

While disappointed in the failure of his par to make a better showing, Frank Shields, captain of the U. S. team, refused to find fault with either.

"They just ran into the greatest doubles team I ever saw," he said. "Those two fellows were tremendous. It's mighty discouraging to make a perfect cut off shot at the net and hit where no one should be and have it come back past you for a winner. That happened to our boys a dozen times today. I don't think Ted was especially tired, only discouraged."

Schroeder was the only player to lose his service. The Aussies broke him twice in the opening set, again in the final game of the long second set and finally in the eighth game of the third set to gain victory. Trabert never ceased to fight and he repeatedly won plaudits from the crowd by his singlehanded battle with adversity. But the task was far too much for the lad from the Bainbridge (Md.) Naval Station.

To Open Indoor Play
Brookline, Mass., Dec. 27 (AP)—Top-seeded Elaine Lewicki of Hamtramck, Mich., will get started in the 1952 National Junior Girls' indoor tennis tournament against Sue Morton of Winchester, in a second-round match today at Longwood. Miss Lewicki, the 1950 victor, drew a first round bye, as did Mary Pigott of New Haven, Conn. Miss Pigott's initial competition will be against Audrey Braum of Birmingham, Mich., who won a love match against Brenda Shaw of Newton, during yesterday's opening round.

Silent on Offer
New York, Dec. 27 (AP)—The International Boxing Club, apparently determined to take the offensive in its running feud with Jack Hurley, has offered Harry (Kid) Matthews a title shot at light heavyweight champion Joey Maxim—but all they heard from Matthews' veteran manager today was silence. It was a case of the cat chasing the dog. The IBC has most big cities tied up, but Matthews and Hurley have been campaigning outside the IBC's territory with great success and are in no hurry to come to terms.

ROAD BLOCK—With one of the markers used to close off their practice area at Pasadena's Brookside Park, unbeaten Illinois' defensive linemen show what they intend to do to Stanford's attack in the Rose Bowl on New Year's Day. ### Esopus Firemen, Economy Cagers Win in Y Loop

With three players hitting the double figures in the scoring column, the Esopus Firemen scored a 55 to 46 victory over the 156th Field Artillery cagers in the B Division of the YMCA Basketball League Wednesday night.

In the other game on the Y double-header, the Economy Construction quintet, sparked by Chris Rienzo, turned back Elstons by 62 to 47. Rienzo hit for 30 markers to pace the winners.

Dick Mains, Bob Berger and Bill Hermance scored 18, 16 and 14 points respectively to lead the Esopus basketballers to their victory. H. Van Wagenen was high for the losers with 17. Dunham scored 16 for the 156th.

While Rienzo was the big gun for the Economy Construction five, Frank Fiore and Ken Kohout figured high with their point totals of 18 and 12 points for the winning club. Harry Craft flipped in 20 for Elstons while Bucky Bowers tallied 19.

Tech Team Arrives

Miami Beach, Fla., Dec. 27 (AP)—The Georgia Tech football team, 44 strong, planned to put in a tough workout today in preparation for its meeting with the Baylor Bears in the Orange Bowl Tuesday afternoon.

The Tech squad arrived by plane yesterday and spent 90 minutes limbering up and running signals at Flamingo Park after a session with photographers. Baylor was due to arrive at 4 p. m. (EST) aboard a special plane.

Open Final Drills

New Orleans, Dec. 27 (AP)—Tennessee and Maryland came to the deep south to fire up their Sugar Bowl attacks and found perfect weather today to open final drills for the New Year's day football classic.

It was clear and cool and the weatherman promised temperatures in the 50's by midday.

Tennessee's Volunteers worked at Baton Rouge on the Louisiana State University campus, some 80 miles up the Mississippi river, while Maryland drilled at Biloxi, Miss., on the gulf coast, 50 miles east of here.

Tennessee and Maryland—unbeaten and untied and ranked No. one and three in the nation in the Associated Press poll—have been hampered by snow and cold weather at Knoxville and College Park in preparing for the Sugar Bowl.

Donoghue Scores TKO Win Early

New York, Dec. 27 (AP)—Roger Donoghue, who wants to be a radio and television sports announcer, is making good in the radio-TV field—but as a boxer instead.

Making his debut as a main-eventer on a national network radio-TV bout at St. Nicholas Arena last night, lanky Roger floored Vinnie O'Andrea of New York three times to win a two-round technical knockout. The six foot, one inch Yonkers, welterweight shook off a staggering blow in the first round and then dropped his New York rival twice for eight-counts in the same round.

In the second, Donoghue decked O'Andrea for nine with another smashing left hook just before the bell rang to end the round.

Milwaukee Halts Knicks' Streak

(By The Associated Press)

The Milwaukee Hawks are celebrating a belated Christmas today. They received their present last night in the form of a long-awaited victory after having suffered eight straight defeats in the National Basketball Association.

Milwaukee shaded the New York Knicks, 78-76, to halt a five-game winning streak of the New York team. The Hawks overcame a nine-point deficit in the third period and club to a slim advantage in the latter part of the final stanza. Don Boven garnered scoring laurels for the victors with 19 points.

Warriors Lose

The Baltimore Bullets had to battle three overtime periods before they could defeat the Philadelphia Warriors, 103-99. The Bullets led Philadelphia, 71-58, at the outset of the fourth period, but the Warriors came bounding back with 32 points to tie the contest.

Stan Miesek, Dave Minor and Frank Kudelka combined in the third extra session to tally nine points for the Bullets that gave them the hard-earned victory. Paul Arizin of Philadelphia topped the scorers with 22 markers.

Fort Wayne checked the Boston Celtics' potent offense and recorded a 94-86 triumph over the eastern division leaders. The game was close until the final four minutes, when the Pistons, paced by Fred Schaus and Frank Brian, pulled away to a ten-point advantage.

Ed McAuley caged 25 points for the Celtics. Schaus and Brian led Fort Wayne with 23 and 21 points, respectively.

Meet With Governor

Albany, N. Y., Dec. 27 (AP)—Representatives of the State Conference Board of Farm Organizations meet today with Governor Dewey to discuss the organization's 1952 legislative program. About 100 persons from the state's major farm groups were expected to attend the annual meeting (about noon) in the executive chambers.

BOWLING

Harry Smith, Mildred Goldstein Top Local Leagues With 654-479

Powered by a 248 middle game, Harry Smith took over first place in the individual bowling lime-light on the strength of a 654 blast in the Central Rec Major League Wednesday night.

Smith's 248, also high single reported from last night's scores, was sandwiched between sticks of 193 and 213.

In the distasteful department, Mildred Goldstein of the Ferraro Pioneer Women's League, held forth with a string of 146-156-177 for 479.

Other top scores reported from the 68th annual scheduled tournament Albany with 203-226-182 for 611 in the Junior Major wheel at the Bowlatorium and Joe Mannello who fired 193-192-205 for 590 to pace the CYO-Holy Name firing at the Bowlatorium.

Sugar Ray Cited 'Boxer of Year'; Matthews Named

New York, Dec. 27 (AP)—Middleweight champion Ray Robinson and light heavyweight contender Harry (Kid) Matthews share the honors in Ring magazine's awards for the year.

Editor Nat Fleischer named Robinson "Fighter of the Year," and selected Matthews as the best all-around fighter of the year. The awards and Ring's annual ratings were announced in a copyrighted article in the February issue of the boxing monthly.

It was the second time in three years that Sugar Ray has been chosen for fighter of the year laurels. Fleischer awards it to the boxer who combines boxing proficiency with sportsmanship and contributes to the uplift of the sport.

In selecting Robinson, Fleischer wrote: "His fighting record, his high standing with the public as an honored citizen, his influence on the youth, his position as a sportsman, his contributions to the public welfare and his contribution to the skill and science of the sport—all were to be considered."

Matthews was selected by Fleischer for "his cleverness, hitting power, ring generalship and triumphs over all opponents regardless of weight."

Joe Louis was placed in a strange spot—No. 5 in the ranks of heavyweight contenders. Louis has never been lower than the top or No. 1 contender since he won the title. Ezzard Charles, the ex-champion, was ranked as the No. 1 contender, followed by Rocky Marciano, Mayo conqueror of Louis.

Arlesky Hits 622

Three other 600 blasts featured the pin-busting mart in the Central Rec Major. Following Smith's pacer, Mitzie Arlesky finished in the runner-up spot with 222-201 for 622. Larry Weishaupt, 227-613, and Ken Joseph, 202-213-607. Also of note in the loop were R. Ellis with 204-594; Elwood Robinson 219-580; Harold Brookie 218-575; Cliff Quick 205-214-573; Herb Van Deusen 203-224-570; Charlie Gruenwald 214-570 and Joe Bosco 223-570.

Miron Lumber, established a new team single score of 1084, besting the former mark of 1075 held by Amels.

Trailing Mildred Goldstein's 479 in the Pioneer Women's League were Dot LaRocca with 458; L. Cameron 433; Rita Amarello 429; D. Strubel 410; T. Van Aken 407. Ann Carpio converted the 3-7-10 split, the secretary reported.

Ed Cunningham's 229 - 591 triple took over second place in the Junior Major. Bill Davis pondered 202-569; W. Sackler 200-569; Ed Heins 222-556; W. Wood 555; F. Kuhnle 551; Milt Cole, Sr. 542; George Magley 206-539; Don Koepfen 538 and N. Scherer 536.

Top listings in the CYO wheel included Pete Nagy with 224-570 behind Joe Mannello's 590. Charlie Hertica posted 205-549; C. Prendergast 532; Joe Fautz 510 and J. Sweeney 502.

Red Wings Handed First Road Defeat

(By The Associated Press)

New York Rangers, who haven't been doing too well in front of the home-town folks this National Hockey League season, presented the Broadway faithful with a delayed Christmas present last night—a stunning 1-0 victory over the league-leading Detroit Red Wings.

For the Broadway Blues it couldn't have come at a better time. There were 13,556 fans on hand—largest of the season in New York. It was Detroit's first loss away from home this season and it was Ranger goalkeeper Chuck Rayner's first shutout.

In addition, it broke a last-place deadlock with the idle Chicago Black Hawks, moving the Rangers to fifth.

The loss for Detroit wasn't too tough a blow. The second-place Toronto Maple Leafs failed to take advantage of the Wings' setback.

back as they dropped a 3-2 decision at Toronto to the Montreal Canadiens in the other NHL game of the night. Detroit still holds its 13-point edge over the Leafs.

Slowinski Wins Game

Winger Ed Slowinski was the marksman at New York, scoring early in the first period.

The Canadiens came from behind a 2-1 second period deficit to gain their victory at Toronto.

The Canadiens played without Rocket Richard, sidelined due to a groin injury. Dick Gamble, his replacement on the Elmer Lach team, scored the game-winning goal with less than three minutes remaining.

Paul Meger sent Canadiens into a 1-0 first period lead when he beat Al Rollins at 18:55 on passes from Bernie (Boom Boom) Geoffrion and Billy Reay. The Leafs came up with two goals in the middle session with Harry Watson and Tod Sloan the scorers. Geoffrion tied it up at 1:50 of the third.

(AP Science Reporter)
Chalk River, Ont., Dec. 27 (AP)—If it weren't for its isolation—and the armed guards and high steel fence around it—you might mistake Canada's atomic project for some everyday industry manufacturing anything from chocolates to babies' rompers.

Sited in a picturesque spot along the Ottawa river in northwestern Ontario, the plant consists of 100 buildings spread over 800 of a total of 10,000 forested acres—the extra acreage being for secrecy.

A square, 100-foot high stone building which houses the "heart" of the dominion's project is so-called enough externally. And the device within that building for producing atomic energy has roughly the outside appearance of a vat for making beer or benzene.

But that device—a so-called "heavy water" reactor or furnace—is unique among all known atomic furnaces in the world. The closed vat-like structure enclosing this reactor is about 35 feet high and across. It is built in the center of a room 200 feet long, 100 wide, 100 high.

No Sound From Reactor
You hear no sound from the reactor, but within it—billions of neutrons—atomic bullets—are flying around at speeds up to 10,000 miles a second. The radioactivity generated is equal to that produced by "tons" of radium.

Each second 80 trillion neutrons pass through an area roughly equivalent to that covered by a five-cent coin.

And, it's this concentration of neutrons—called the "neutron flux" by the slide-rule boys—that makes Canada's reactor something super-special.

Because of it, Canada can make plutonium faster from a given amount of uranium fuel than can any other known country. The dominion's present relatively small reactor is not designed to produce plutonium in large quantities but the speed factor is there nevertheless.

Thanks to this same high "neutron flux," Canada's device can produce radioactive isotopes "hotter and smaller" than those producible anywhere else including the United States. For example, radioactive cobalt for treating cancer can be prepared in tiny wafers totalling four ounces, yet packing the radioactive punch of virtually the entire world supply of radium.

Secret Lies In Core
Secret of Canada's championship so far in the reactor field lies in the "core" of the reactor's structure.

This core is a cylindrical vessel about ten feet high and eight across. In it are 176 uranium rods—the "fuel" of the furnace—and these are immersed in a special kind of water called "heavy water."

Function of the "heavy water" is, roughly, to keep neutrons busy "splitting" uranium atoms so that a chain-reaction is sustained and the atomic fire keeps burning.

It's the world's most efficient material for that purpose, and it accounts for the record "neutron flux" of Canada's reactor.

The core of the reactor is surrounded by a layer of graphite to reflect any neutrons which might escape through the water. And, around this whole inner business is a thick shield of concrete to protect workers from radioactivity.

Starting the "chain reaction" in the uranium fuel is a process of reverse dunking. . . .

The uranium rods in the cylinder are stationary, and there's enough uranium to maintain a chain reaction, provided the neutrons producible by the fuel are kept busy splitting uranium atoms.

This is where the "heavy water" comes in. It is pumped up from the bottom of the cylinder until it reaches a level where it heads off sufficient neutrons to keep the uranium "burning."

Thereafter, the power output of the reactor can be regulated by raising or lowering the water level. It's so sensitive that, to keep a steady level of power and radioactivity, the water level must not vary more than a tiny fraction of an inch.

An auxiliary means of regulation is provided by an adjustable "control rod" made of cadmium—a metal which has a notorious appetite for neutrons, and therefore can take them out of circulation.

The whole shebang can be shut down by dropping neutron-absorbing "shut-off rods" into the reactor. Furthermore, the furnace shuts off automatically if it gets too hot.

Materials designed for exposure to radioactive rays within the reactor are fed into the device by a kind of ingenious pin-ball machine.

Substances, like cobalt, to be "irradiated," are first placed in tiny aluminum balls, then placed in special chambers just inside the reactor.

Through automatic means—controlled by overgrown pop-guns placed perpendicular to the reactor—the balls are pushed by compressed air into the area of radioactivity, and likewise withdrawn after desired exposure.

"You pay according to position in the reactor," I was told by Dr. David A. Keys, general supervisor at the Chalk River plant. He meant that materials exposed in the "hottest" inner part of the furnace cost most of all.

Radioactive cobalt, which must be exposed from a year to 18 months to achieve its highest radioactivities, costs about $18,000 in the tiny amount needed as filler of an anti-cancer "bomb."

But it packs the radioactive power of $5,000,000 worth of radium. Other radioactive materials can be obtained, however, at prices as low as $25, depending upon quantity and the time they are "parked" in the furnace.

No Big Mine Halt

Friends and relatives of the victims of Friday night's disaster. The investigators covered about four miles of the blast-swept pit the first day. They didn't know how long it would take to complete the check.

Lewis' comment after the survey was: "I have reached my own definite conclusions, but I'm withholding comment on them."

It appeared unlikely he would make further comment until other investigating groups finish their work and report.

A congressional inquiry also was touched off.

Senator Humphrey (D-Minn.) said a Senate labor-management subcommittee sent an investigator—Curtis Johnson—to lay the groundwork for public hearings early next year. Humphrey heads the subcommittee.

The investigators were searched before entering the pit for matches, cigarette lighters or other objects which could produce a flame.

The biggest task was to determine the exact point of origin of the blast. Machinery, timbers, tunnel walls and other equipment for miles were wrecked by the force of the explosion. While most investigators agree gas caused the disaster, they want to learn what touched it off.

Funeral services, which started Monday, continued. Most burials were individual affairs but there were a few cases where two or more members of the same family were buried in the same service.

The UMW local arranged for pallbearers for families unable to get enough.

The last body from the nation's worst coal mine disaster in 23 years was removed yesterday. It was James O. Cantrell, 44, a crew foreman.

Rescue workers had been unable to find him. Charles Walker, safety director for the company and a member of the investigating team, located the body.

Powell Will Manage Morgan Linen Office
A change in local management has been announced by the Morgan Linen Company, Inc., of 52 Broadway, which reported that as of January 1 the position will be held by John K. Powell of 28 Voorhees avenue.

Powell is now assistant manager under Matthew K. Tryon, who is resigning, the company said, to join the Albany insurance agency operated by brother-in-law S. W. DeFriest at 90 State street.

If the Hungarian government had not decided to accept the payment, then the manner and means of its payment apparently could not have been an issue. They have been wary of talking over lines monitored by the Communists.

New York, Dec. 27 (AP)—The Prudential Insurance Company of America reported today a "considerable" back to work movement among its striking agents, a claim that immediately was disputed by a strike leader.

The strikers, members of the Insurance Agents International Union (AFL), quit work in 32 states on Dec. 1, seeking to enforce their demand for a $20 increase in weekly base pay to $55. The union claims to represent 15,500 of Prudential's 18,000 agents.

A company spokesman said 6,887 agents, or 43 per cent, are at work in unionized territory. He said he did not know how many of these had taken part in the strike.

In the last seven working days 758 strikers have returned to work, 200 of them yesterday, the spokesman reported.

Disputing this report, Max Shine, the union's secretary-treasurer, said not more than 150 were involved in the back to work move.

He said all Prudential offices in the strike area are being picketed and "our lines are stronger than on the first day of the walkout." Continuing his efforts to settle garians, and that Budapest legation officials did not want to discuss this matter over the telephone. They have been wary of talking over lines monitored by the Communists.

the dispute, federal conciliator Thomas G. Dougherty summoned both the company and the union to a meeting at the Mediation Service's Manhattan headquarters this afternoon.

Girls Sentenced In 'Sitter Case

Lynn, Mass., Dec. 27 (AP)—The famous Nahant babysitting case was marked "closed" today with the three schoolgirl principals under court sentence for the theft of $18,000 from the home of a doctor.

Roberta McCauley, 15, the baby-sitter, and one of her two companions, Marilyn Curry, 16, were placed yesterday under the jurisdiction of the Youth Service Board, a state agency which handles rehabilitation of juvenile offenders.

Eileen Jeffrey, 17, the other of the trio, was placed on probation for two years with the condition that she spend one year at the House of the Good Shepherd, operated by Catholic sisters for the rehabilitation of girls and women of all creeds.

For the next three to four weeks, Roberta and Marilyn will undergo classification, processing after which a decision will be made by the Youth Service Board as to their future until they reach 21.

Eileen was first sentenced to an indefinite term in the Women's Reformatory but later in the day District Court Judge William J. Landergan suspended her sentence and placed her on probation.

The girls were accused of stealing $18,000 from Dr. Albert Covner for a baby-sitter. Roberta was the ringleader. They went to New York with the money, the girls admitted, and spent $3,000 of it on good clothes and entertainment. They were fleeced out of the rest of it by three men they met at a Times Square cocktail lounge.

Dr. Albert Covner, apparently upset by the furore caused by the theft of his money, committed suicide several weeks after the girls' spree.

Knights Promise Novel New Year's

Raymond Long, arrangements chairman in charge of the New Year's party to be held at the Knights of Columbus home Monday, said today that details have been completed, and that this year's party will be "something new and different."

Floyd Barringer's orchestra will play for dancing, and there will be refreshments, novelties and streamers, Long said. The doors will open at 7:30 p. m., and dancing will continue until a late hour. The committee members assisting Chairman Long are: James Loughran, music; Andrew McDermott, refreshment; John Smith and Nick Reis, decorations; Charles Trice, Jesse Lanzfame, floor arrangements; Ken Clark, Charles Trice, Andrew McDermott, Nick Reis, John Smith, Edward Hanley, Mickey Ryan, James Loughran, Jack Kelly, Willis Titus, Art Madden, Joseph Saccoccio, Walter Foster, James V. Geary, W. Kenneth Geary, Philip McDonald, Harold W. O'Connor, Jesse Lanzfame, John Grolinski, John Whittaker, Frank Reis and Edmund Roux, tickets.

Chairman Long, stressing that reservations are limited, advised that they may be made by contacting Kenneth Clark, ticket chairman, or phoning the K. of C. build. ing.

Rotary Holds Yule Party, Gives Wicks Honorary Scroll

The annual Christmas party and the presentation of an honorary membership to Senator Arthur H. Wicks was held by the Rotary Club on Wednesday at the Hotel Stuyvesant.

There were approximately 40 children in attendance at the party, which was greatly enjoyed by the future Rotarians and Rotary Anns. Songs appropriate to the season were sung and the children were treated to a movie, "Saga of Seal Island," shown by Warren Russell.

Announcement was made that on Thursday evening at 8 o'clock the Rotarians would assemble at the A. Carr and Sons Funeral Home to pay their last respects to the Rev. Dr. Frank B. Seeley, who was a charter member of the Kingston Rotary Club, which was organized in 1916.

Preceding the children's party, Senator Wicks was presented with an honorary membership by the Rev. Dean Dykstra, Rotary president.

In receiving the honorary membership, Senator Wicks expressed his gratitude for the high honor, which was bestowed upon him by his fellow Rotarians. He said that this was one of the greatest honors he had received in his lifetime. He said that during his 34 years membership the fellowship and exchange of ideas with other members was looked forward to and he endeavored to attend every meeting.

Affiliated 34 Years

The inscription on the scroll was as follows: "To all who shall see these presents, greetings be it known that Arthur H. Wicks became a member of Kingston Rotary Club in 1917, and during the 34 years of membership has translated into daily living as a Rotarian, as a citizen and as a public official, the ideals of Rotary International; and

"Whereas, since January 1, 1927, he has ably represented the 34th Senatorial District, comprising the Counties of Ulster, Greene and Sullivan in the Senate of the State of New York; and

"Whereas, in 1950, he was unanimously elected president, pro-tem and majority leader of the Senate of New York, and has since rendered distinguished service in that exalted position of trust and responsibility; and

"Whereas, by his many public services, by his acts of kindness and courtesy and by his expressions of sincere friendship has endeared himself to the membership of the Kingston Rotary Club; therefore be it

Express Admiration

"Resolved, in testimony whereof, and by authority vested in the Board of Directors of Kingston Rotary Club, we do confer upon Arthur H. Wicks, as an expression of our respect, admiration and affection honorary membership."

The scroll was signed by the Rev. Dean Dykstra, president and Harry S. Edson, secretary and the following board of directors: Beverly C. Anderson, Clement J. Angstrom, Emil G. Boessneck, Jr., Larry V. Bogert, Stephen G. Hyatt, John Henry Martin, Earl H. Newbery and Ernest A. Steuding.

40 Children Are Lions Party Guests

The Kingston Lions Club members treated their children and young guests to a Christmas party at the Governor Clinton Hotel Wednesday at noon. About 40 children attended.

Lawrence Jensen was master of ceremonies. Entertainment included a vocal rendition by Mary O'Connor and Virginia Carpenter, guests of Hugo Wessler. Piano solos were played by Jerome Singer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Singer, and by Walter Donnaruma, Jr.

Lions Roger Bear and Harold Cross also provided piano selections and accompanied group singing. The luncheon was planned for the enjoyment of the youngsters and included ice cream, cake and milk.

The meeting was held on Wednesday since the Lions' regular meeting day was Christmas Day. Next week the meeting will again be held on Wednesday instead of Tuesday, New Year's Day.
